III. ORGANIZATION AND EQUIPMENT

GENERAL STATEMENT

The Law School of the University of Chicago was established in 1902. Its purpose is to give a thorough legal training to students whose education and maturity have fitted them to pursue serious professional study. The method of instruction—the study of cases—is designed to give an effective knowledge of legal principles and to develop the power of independent legal reasoning. The course of study offered, requiring three academic years for completion, is not local in its scope, but constitutes a thorough preparation for the practice of law in any English-speaking jurisdiction. By taking advantage of the Quarter system (see "General Information," p. 6, below) students may complete the course in two and one-fourth calendar years.

Only college graduates or students who have had college work equivalent to three years in the University are admitted as regular students, candidates for
