LOCATION

The University of Chicago Law School was established in 1902. It is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is on the list of approved Law Schools of the American Bar Association. It is situated on the University Quadrangles adjacent to the Midway. Washington Park lies to the west and Jackson Park, the lake, and the South Park System to the east. The Sixtieth Street station of the Illinois Central Railroad is only thirteen minutes from the Loop, and buses, street railways, and the boulevards of the South Park System provide additional means of transportation.

THE LAW BUILDING

The Law School occupies a building erected for its use in 1904. The building is three stories high, 175 feet long, and 80 feet wide. It is built of stone in the Gothic type of architecture. The semi-English basement contains ample locker space and lounge room. The classrooms are on the first floor and the stackroom on the second floor. On the third floor is the reading-room, with ample accommodations for studying.

THE LAW LIBRARY

The Law Library contains about 67,500 volumes. It includes the following:
All the American, English, Irish, Scotch, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, and higher Indian reports and the recent South African reports; all collateral reports and series of classified cases. There are duplicate and in some cases triplicate sets of American, English, Irish, and Scotch reports in the reading-room of the Law School.
All past and present American and Canadian statutory revisions and codes, together with a complete set of the session laws of these jurisdictions (except for a few of the early session laws). A complete set of English, Irish, and Scotch statutes; and the modern statutes and codes of India, Australia, New Zealand, and the more important British colonies.
An extensive collection of treatises (classical and modern), periodicals, trials, and legal miscellany, including a large amount of old English historical material; and a working library in French, German, Spanish, and Mexican law.
Students in the Law School may use the other University libraries, containing over 1,100,000 volumes.
