Registrar of the Law School and as letter grades in the Office of the Registrar of the University.) A grade of 60 or above is required for credit for the work involved.

To maintain satisfactory academic standing, a student must receive a weighted grade average of 68 or more for the work of each academic year (three-quarter sequence) and a cumulative average of 68 after the conclusion of the second year (sixth quarter) and the third year (ninth quarter). In addition, a student who receives two failing final grades in any one academic year, or three failing final grades during his or her period of residence at the Law School, will not have maintained satisfactory academic standing. Maintenance of satisfactory academic standing is a prerequisite to continuation in the School as well as to graduation.

Regular class attendance is required as a condition of receiving credit for work done. The privilege of membership in the School may be withdrawn for unsatisfactory class work or attendance.

After the first four weeks of any quarter a student is not permitted to withdraw from a course, seminar, or special work for which he or she has registered that quarter except with the permission of the Dean of Students.

The degree of Doctor of Law with Honors is awarded to candidates who have satisfied the requirements for the degree with distinction. The achievement of a weighted grade average of 78 or better is considered to be completion of the requirements with distinction.

FIRST-YEAR COURSES

301. ELEMENTS OF THE LAW. The purpose of this course is to explore the nature and processes of "legal reasoning" and the basic institutions of the American lawmaking system. Among the subjects for discussion are: the sources and forms of law; the role of precedent; the relationship between law and politics; the common law method; the connections between legal history on the one hand and economic and social theory on the other; the reasons for changes in the law; and statutory and constitutional interpretation. Aut (4). Mr. Sunstein.

302. CIVIL PROCEDURE. The first part of this course concerns the formulation and defense of legal claims in civil litigation, with special reference to the adversary system and the role of the lawyer in it. It includes an analysis of pleading and discovery procedures and the right and function of jury trial. The second part of the course is a study of jurisdiction and the scope and effect of judgments, with an emphasis upon the problems imposed by a federal system upon complete determination of disputes that cross state lines; state court jurisdiction from Pennoyer v. Neff to present-day "long-arm" statutes; principles of finality of judgments and their implementation through the Full Faith and Credit Clause; proceedings in rem and quasi in rem and interpleader and class actions as devices for extending judgments to the rights of persons beyond the personal jurisdiction of the court; the role of the federal courts under the diversity jurisdiction; the enforcement of judgments. Aut (4). Mr. Stone, Mr. Isenbergh, Mr. Strauss.

303. CRIMINAL LAW. This course relates the general doctrines of criminal liability to the moral and social problems of crime. The definitions of crimes against the person and against property (as they are at present and as they might be) are considered in the light of the purposes of punishment and of the role of the criminal justice system, including police and correctional agencies, in influencing behavior and protecting the community. Aut (4). Win (4). Mr. Alschuler, Mr. Morris.

304. PROPERTY. This course provides an introduction to the legal relationships that arise out of or comprise ownership of property. Among the subjects to be covered are the initial acquisition of rights in real and personal property, the nature of ownership of natural resources, the various types of concurrent and successive interests in land, and restraints on alienation. The course will also deal with the law relating to easements and covenants, landlord and tenant, and conveyancing. Aut (4), Win (4). Mr. Currie, Mr. Helmholz.

305. CONTRACTS. The course will deal with the historical development of the enforceability of contractual arrangements, sanctions for their breach, and justification or excuses for nonperformance. The nineteenth-century elaboration of such basic contract doctrines as that of consideration will be examined in the light of their decline and fall in our own century. The relationship between contract liability and tort liability, taken as twin halves of a general theory of civil obligation, will be stressed. Win (4), Spr (4). Ms. Becker, Mr. Simpson.

306. TORTS. This course deals with the Anglo-American system (mainly judge-created) of liability for physical injury to person or property. Special stress is laid on the legal doctrines governing accidental injury, such as negligence and strict liability, assumption of risk, and the duty requirement. The rules for determining damages in personal-injury cases will also be discussed. Alternative theories of tort liability, e.g., moral and economic, will be compared. Win (4), Spr (4). Mr. Epstein, Mr. Kimball.

307. LEGAL RESEARCH AND WRITING. Each first-year student is assigned to a tutor for individual and small-group work in legal analysis, research, and exposition, including an exercise in brief-writing and oral argument. Aut, Win, Spr (5). Mr. Isenbergh, and Mr. Jones, Ms. Langford, Ms. Lien, Mr. Patterson, Ms. Woolhandler, Mr. Wright.

ELECTIVE. In the Spring Quarter first-year students will elect one course or seminar from among the following: 464, The Legislative Process; 471, The Criminal Justice System; 476, Development of Legal Institutions; 480, Blackstone's Commentaries; 492, Economic Analysis of Law; 550, Seminar: English Legal History; 566, Seminar: Social Science Research and Law. Preferences will be indicated in advance registration during the Winter Quarter. Where necessary in order to limit these courses and seminars to a reasonable size, enrollment by first-year students will be limited by lot.

LEGAL HISTORY AND JURISPRUDENCE 29

COMPARATIVE AND INTERNATIONAL LAW 31

COMPLEMENTARY COURSES 32

Constitutional Law

Courses

401. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW I. The function of constitutionalism, the institution and role of judicial review, the concept of jurisdiction, the role of precedents, the interplay of the various branches of the federal government within the framework of separation of powers, and the relationship between constitutional adjudication and its political, social, and economic context. It is recommended that students take Constitutional Law I before studying Constitutional Law II or III, Administrative Law, or Federal Jurisdiction. Aut (4). Mr. McConnell.

402. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW II: FIRST AMENDMENT. A study of the problems of freedom of speech that have a constitutional dimension, including such topics as prior restraints, obscenity, the right of privacy, libel, group libel, fair trial and free press, congressional investigating committees, loyalty oaths, compulsory disclosure laws, sedition, public-issue picketing, symbolic conduct, and protest in public places. Spr (4). Mr. Stone.

403. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW III: EQUAL PROTECTION AND SUBSTANTIVE DUE PROCESS. The course will focus on the development of the equal protection clause and on such concepts as substantive equal protection and substantive due process. Particular attention will be paid to the legacy of the Reconstruction Amendments. Win (4). Mr. Strauss.

404. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW IV: RELIGION AND THE FIRST AMENDMENT. A study of the relationship between government and religion, as ordered by the Free Exercise and Establishment Clauses of the First Amendment. The course will include both historical materials and modern Supreme Court doctrine, and will cover such topics of current interest as incorporation, aid to parochial schools, religious activities in public schools, religious influences in politics, and religious accommodation. Spr (4). Mr. McConnell.
405. AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY. Following an introductory examination of the separation of powers in state constitutions after 1776, the course will focus on the separation of powers concept in the Constitutional Convention. The main part of the course, however, will be devoted to the actual operations of the three branches of the national government from the adoption of the Constitution through the presidency of Thomas Jefferson. The emphasis will be on interactions of the legislative and executive branches. The class materials will mostly consist of legislation, congressional debates, materials concerning the workings of administrative departments and other noncase sources. Two areas of concentration concern the budgetary process and Congress's role in the making of foreign policy. Reading assignments will be very substantial. Constitutional Law I is a prerequisite. (4). Mr. Casper. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

406. STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT. An examination of selected provisions of state constitutions, general laws providing for the formation and regulation of public corporations, and legislative and freehold charters, with an emphasis on the role defining the voting public in the design and operation of democratic institutions. Aut (4). Mr. Lucas.

472. CRIMINAL PROCEDURE I. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

Seminars

500. CONSTITUTIONAL THEORY AND INTERPRETATION. The subject of this seminar is constitutional theory and interpretation, with special reference to cases involving civil rights and civil liberties. Much of the seminar will focus on the legitimacy and usefulness of various possible sources of constitutional decisions: the “intent” of the framers; the language of the Constitution; conceptions of justice; precedent; tradition; and social consensus. Some time will also be spent on the competing theories of government underlying the Constitution and the ways in which those theories have been rejected or implemented in contemporary constitutional and (briefly) administrative law. The broader issues for consideration are (1) the role of the Supreme Court in American government; (2) the character of American democracy, as it is reflected in legal doctrines; and (3) the nature of “legal reasoning” in constitutional law and perhaps more generally. Students who have not taken Constitutional Law I may enroll only with the permission of the instructor. Win (4). Mr. Sunstein.

501. SUPREME COURT. An analysis of cases on the docket of the Supreme Court in the current term. The members of the seminar prepare draft opinions after studying the briefs filed in the Supreme Court. The opinions are circulated and then discussed in the seminar, usually in advance of the actual decision of the particular case by the Court. The required written work consists of the several opinions which each student must prepare. The seminar will be offered once in the winter and once in the spring. Enrollment in each will not exceed approximately nine students. Win, Spr (4). Mr. Kurland.

502. CONSTITUTIONAL DECISION MAKING. Students enrolled in this seminar are divided into “courts,” each of which consists of five “justices.” During each of the first five weeks of the quarter, the courts are assigned several hypothetical cases raising issues under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The cases must be decided with opinion (concurring and dissenting opinions are permitted). The decisions may be premised on the legislative history of the Clause, and on any doctrines or precedents created by the “Justices” themselves. The “Justices” may not rely, however, upon any actual decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The seminar is designed to give students some insight into the problems a Justice confronts in collaborating with colleagues, interpreting an ambiguous constitutional provision, and then living with the doctrines and precedents he or she creates. (4). Mr. Stone. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

503. AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY. The seminar will be concerned with the origins of the Constitution of 1787 and the first twelve Amendments and with the interpretation of these provisions through the Marshall Court period. Each student will be expected to deliver an oral presentation to the seminar and to submit a written paper. (4). Mr. Kurland. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

504. SUPREME COURT HISTORY. Students will prepare and present papers on various topics relating to Supreme Court decisions during the time of Chief Justice Hughes (1930–41). Topics will be assigned at the beginning of Autumn Quarter to permit oral presentations during Winter. Preference will be given to students having taken Constitutional Law I. Win (4). Mr. Currie.

552. LEGAL HISTORY: THE SUPREME COURT AND THE JURY GUARANTEES. For seminar description refer to section on Legal History and Jurisprudence.

506. LEGISLATIVE PROCESS. Contemporary congressional legislation will be examined in light of the problems addressed, the political controversies involved, the development of legislative history, constitutional issues raised, and reasons for the success or failure of the legislative proposals. Students will be expected to prepare papers to be presented in class. Registration limited. Aut (4). Mr. Kurland.
536. THE LAW CONCERNING AMERICAN INDIANS. For seminar description refer to section on Administrative Law and Government Regulation.

507. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW: PRIVACY AND SECRECY. What are the legal protections and limits for these two concepts? Emphasis on First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendments. Oral presentations and term papers will be required. (4). Mr. Kurland. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

510. SEPARATION OF POWERS. This seminar will examine the idea of separation of powers as a philosophical concept and as a practical principle of government. The first part of the seminar will focus on the idea's development by 18th century thinkers and statesmen; readings will include works by Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Montesquieu, and selections from the Federalist Papers. The second part will examine three current problem areas: vetoes (executive, judicial and legislative), appointments and removals, and privileges. Enrollment limited to 25. (4). Mr. Miller. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

537. SELECTED PROBLEMS IN SEX DISCRIMINATION. For seminar description refer to section on Administrative Law and Government Regulation.

Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure

Courses

410. LECTURES ON THE LEGAL PROFESSION. This lecture series examines the role of the lawyer in this country from several different perspectives, beginning with a review of the history of the profession. It then looks at the structure of the profession and the consequences that flow from having a highly organized, self-governing bar. Subsequent lectures will focus on the rules (existing and proposed) that govern the practice of law, including those addressing the unauthorized practice of law, lawyer advertising, minimum fees, and mandatory bar membership. The final lectures in the series will study the conflicts lawyers face in different contexts, such as those arising from representing the government or from specializing in tax, business, or criminal law. Aut (3). The Faculty.

411. FEDERAL JURISDICTION I. This course explores in detail the question of which matters can be litigated in the federal courts. Topics will include: diversity, federal-question, and admiralty jurisdiction; sovereign immunity, the jurisdictional amount, abstention, the limitations on injunctions against other proceedings; and the case-or-controversy requirement. It is recommended that students complete the course in Constitutional Law I before taking Federal Jurisdiction. Aut (4). Mr. Strauss.

412. FEDERAL JURISDICTION II. An advanced course for students who have taken Federal Jurisdiction I. The focus will be on the jurisdiction of the United States Supreme Court, and on direct and collateral review of state court judgments in the federal courts. Topics will include: congressional control of Supreme Court jurisdiction; federal habeas corpus; inter-jurisdictional res judicata problems; and scope of review problems in First Amendment cases. Win (4). Mr. Bator.

413. ADMIRALTILITY. Historical development of “cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction” as an element of the jurisdiction of the federal district courts; the role of the Supreme Court in the “common law” development of the substantive law of the admiralty; a brief introduction to the main elements of the substantive maritime law: the maritime lien, maritime torts and contracts, salvage, general average, and limitation of liability. Win (4). Mr. Lucas.

414. REMEDIES. The course is designed to examine the scope of legal and equitable remedies and to determine how effective they are in practice. The main topics are: (1) the object of an award of damages, what it does and should achieve; (2) equitable jurisdiction and remedies; the enforcement of equitable remedies; the effect of the so-called merger of law and equity; (3) restitutionary remedies to prevent unjust enrichment. A selection of topics designed to illustrate the application of legal and equitable remedies will be: (1) remedies for injuries to tangible property (including the misappropriation of money), personal and real property; (2) remedies for injuries to intangible interests (including interference with contract rights, the abuse of fiduciary relationships and diversion of trade); also the protection of a person's reputation and privacy; (3) remedies for breach of contract: the "grey" areas; (4) remedies for duress, undue influence and unconscionability; (5) remedies for mistake. (4). Mr. Jones. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

457. RESTITUTION. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance.

415. CONFLICT OF LAWS. An inquiry into the division of lawmaking and judging authority among the several states and between the states and the federal government, principally through consideration of choice of law, personal jurisdiction, and respect for prior judgments in cases connected with more than one state. (4). [Not offered in 1985–86.]
416. Evidence. The content and reform of the law governing proof of disputed propositions of fact in criminal and civil trials, with incidental treatment of other adjudicative processes, including burdens of proof, presumptions and judicial notice; the function of judge and jury and the preservation of errors for review; the hearsay “rule” and other rules of exclusion; the competency, examination, and privileges of witnesses. Win (5). Mr. Stone.

417. Advanced Civil Procedure. This course will focus on issues in civil procedure that arise after a claim has been reduced to judgment. Topics include enforcement, appeal, and revival of judgments, as well as direct and collateral attacks on them. Spr (4). Mr. Lucas.

418. Litigation Methods. A four-quarter course beginning in the spring quarter of the second year and concluding in the spring quarter of the third year. The course develops legal skills with special emphasis on litigation strategy, pre-trial and trial preparation, and trial and appellate advocacy. Topics will include interviewing, initial planning, investigation, counseling, case planning, negotiation, pleading, discovery, motion practice, voir dire, direct and cross examination, expert witnesses, opening statements, closing argument, pre-trial preparation, post-trial procedure, and appeals. Throughout the course a combination of teaching techniques will be employed, including lectures, large and small group discussions, videotaping, simulations and actual clinical experiences. Special emphasis will be placed on teaching strategic planning and preparation. Actual cases in progress will be used in small groups and large classes to teach the various elements of advocacy. Major impact cases actually in progress at the Clinic will be used to help students identify any differences in pre-trial or trial methods for major cases. Particular emphasis will be placed on how modern discovery techniques are used in complex cases. Students will prepare and present actual cases in court under the supervision of the instructors. Each student will be expected to complete the following requirements in actual cases: substantial participation in an evidentiary hearing, a contested legal argument, three other court appearances, strategic planning memos on several cases, preparation of a legal brief or memorandum for submission to court, participation in discovery for at least one case and participation in at least one major case. Preference in enrollment will be given to second-year participants in the Mandel Clinic. All students will be certified to appear in court under Illinois Supreme Court Rule 711 during their third year. Evidence is a prerequisite. Students taking Litigation Methods are not eligible to enroll in Trial Practice or Major Civil Litigation. Students may choose to take the course for only the first two quarters. Spr (2), Aut (2), Win (1), Spr (1). Mr. Heyrman, Ms. Kamp, Mr. Krieger, Mr. Palm, Mr. Schmidt, Mr. Weber.

419. The Lawyer As Negotiator. The course will focus on the various roles a lawyer plays with emphasis upon the lawyer in the context of the settlement of disputes. Win (4). Mr. Gottlieb.

472. Criminal Procedure I. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

473. Criminal Procedure II. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

471. The Criminal Justice System. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

Seminars

511. Major Civil Litigation. A practical study of tactical and strategic considerations in the preparation and trial of major civil litigation. Employing a significant action in the Federal Court as an example, students will participate, both as plaintiff and defense counsel, in each of the principal litigation steps from contact by the client through initial investigation and development of the facts, drafting of pleadings, interviewing and preparing witnesses, discovery, motion practice, and trial. Experienced trial lawyers will assist by instruction and demonstration. Enrollment will be limited to 20 third-year students, and students must have taken Evidence. Aut (4). Judge Holderman.

512. Trial Practice. Students learn the techniques, strategy, and principles of trial advocacy, civil and criminal. The course is taught in a courtroom setting. Each student prepares and performs the basic tasks of the trial lawyer—jury selection, opening statements, direct and cross-examination of witnesses, and closing arguments. Each performance is critiqued by the instructors, trial judges who were trial lawyers. After the students perform, the instructors demonstrate. By the end of the course, each student will have participated in three full trials, at least two of them trial by jury. The trials take place in the Richard J. Daley Center and are presided over by sitting trial judges. The Evidence course is a prerequisite. Enrollment is limited to two sections of twelve students each. Preference is given to third-year students. Win (2), Spr (2). Judge Wolsion, Judge Howlett.
514. SECTION 1983 CIVIL RIGHTS LITIGATION. The seminar will examine the use of the Civil Rights Act of 1871, the Ku Klux Klan Act, and other Reconstruction era enactments by private litigants to seek redress for violations of their civil rights. Initially the elements of the cause of action, defenses, immunities, and remedies will be analyzed. The seminar will then consider litigation strategies used by civil rights lawyers to increase the availability and effectiveness of civil rights remedies. Throughout the seminar selected briefs and documents from cases pending before the United States Supreme Court and the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals will be examined to see how some of these strategies are currently being applied. Students will be encouraged to select a topic for the written paper suggested by the discussion of pending cases or to prepare a brief for use in an actual §1983 case in the Mandel Legal Aid Clinic. Students should have taken or be enrolled in courses in federal jurisdiction and constitutional law. The prerequisites can be waived by the instructor. Win (4). Mr. Palm.

517. CIVIL DISCOVERY. An examination of the scope and methods of discovery in civil cases under the Federal Rules and the Illinois Supreme Court Rules, recurrent dissatisfaction with abuses of the discovery process, and proposals for changes in the discovery rules. (4). Mr. Lucas. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

522. SECURITIES LITIGATION. For seminar description refer to section on Commercial, Business and Labor Law.

515. APPELLATE PROCEDURE. Appellate jurisdiction, who may appeal, cross and separate appeals, the finality rule, interlocutory appeals, review by extraordinary writs, the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, problems of judicial management in the handling of appeals. (4). Mr. Lucas. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

516. APPELLATE ADVOCACY. This seminar will examine problems and methods of effective advocacy, including such matters as strategy in shaping an appellate case, framing of questions presented, effective use of the statement of facts, sequence of argument and scope of contentions, use of authority, and elements of persuasive style. Examples for analysis and critique will be drawn from briefs and other papers in actual cases. Assignments will include written exercises. This seminar is experimental, and enrollment will be limited to approximately ten students. (4). Judge Posner. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

518. THE JUDICIAL PROCESS. This seminar explores how judges decide cases. After introducing the principal perspectives, from the traditional (such as Cardozo's Nature of the Judicial Process) to the realist, economic, and critical, the seminar takes up a series of problems, such as the role of stare decisis, the extent to which rationales and broad holdings govern later cases, and the power of a court to decide issues other than those identified by the parties. The seminar will use appellate briefs and arguments in pending cases to put the procedural issues in perspective. Aut (4). Judge Easterbrook.

521. SUPREME COURT. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

519. THE CRISIS OF THE FEDERAL COURTS. An examination of the causes, extent, consequences of, and the possible cures for, the federal caseload explosion. Specific topics to be discussed will include: attorney-fee shifting; the selection and evaluation of federal judges; the use of law clerks, magistrates, and other judicial adjuncts; methods of caseload forecasting; litigation substitutes such as arbitration; the contemporary role of the jury; and the optimal division of responsibilities between state and federal courts. (4). Judge Posner. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

Commercial, Business, and Labor Law

Courses

421. COMMERCIAL LAW: COMMERCIAL PAPER AND THE SALE OF GOODS. This course deals with commercial transactions arising under the first seven articles of the Uniform Commercial Code. Topics include negotiable instruments, bank collections, wire transfers, letters of credit, and documents of title, along with a brief review of sales under Article 2. Aut (4). Mr. Baird.

422. COMMERCIAL LAW: SECURED TRANSACTIONS. This course will study security interests in personal property as treated by Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code. Much of the focus of the course will be on the interaction between Article 9 and the rest of the Commercial Code and the new Bankruptcy Code. Win (4). Mr. Baird.

423. CORPORATION LAW. This course considers the nature of the modern business corporation. It begins with an inquiry into the nature of the firm, including problems of the scope of limitations on liability, the selection of a particular form of doing business, and the extent of integration of operations. It then considers the role of managers, devices by which their authority is defined and restricted, and their duties to shareholders (including duties with respect to insider trading); the market for corporate control, including tender offers, mergers, squeeze-outs, going private, proxy fights, and other devices by which some owners can replace either fellow owners or management; the market for corporate chartering, including the choice between state and federal law and the competition among states; the social responsibility of corporations, including corporate altruism, corporate speech, the use of bribes to obtain business, the amenability of corporations to the criminal law, and the responsibility of corporations for the acts of preceding owners of their assets; derivative litigation and other attempts by owners to act directly for the corporation. Aut (4). Mr. Neal. Win (4). Mr. Miller.

424. FEDERAL REGULATION OF SECURITIES. This course covers the issuance and trading of securities. The first half of the course looks at the issuance process in some detail, paying special attention to the complex rules issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission. It takes the decision to raise capital as a given (see the course in Finance for attention to this subject). The second part of the course looks at trading, including tender offers, the duties of brokers and underwriters, private actions, and damages. The economics of finance and capital markets is employed to assist the analysis. Corporation Law is a prerequisite. Win (4). Judge Easterbrook.

494. ACCOUNTING. For course description refer to section on Complementary Courses.

425. CORPORATE FINANCE. An examination of corporate financial matters, including corporate capital structure and leverage, enterprise and securities valuation, the financial protection of security holders and creditors, dividend policy and regulations, and fairness and shareholder protection in mergers and acquisitions. The concept of efficient capital markets and its implications for investment strategy also will be considered. Corporation Law is a prerequisite. Spr (4). Mr. Carlton, Mr. Fischel.

426. CORPORATE READINGJUSTMENTS AND REORGANIZATIONS. This course considers the adjustment of the rights of shareholders in connection with mergers and also by charter amendment and voluntary exchanges of securities, including the rights of dissenting shareholders through appraisal evaluation proceedings. It then deals with the problems encountered in adjusting debt, especially in the face of financial stress, and in rearranging the rights of shareholders in distress situations. Attention is directed to the standards of fairness imposed by law on modification of shareholders' rights and rearrangement of relationships between debtor and creditors and among creditors in these various situations. The standards for reorganization in a bankruptcy proceeding are contrasted with the rules of fairness applied where readjustment is voluntary or is compelled by something other than the debtor's financial difficulties. Attention is also directed to the factors in our society which encourage the use of debt or equity capital. Corporation Law is a prerequisite. Spr (4). Mr. Blum.

434. BANKRUPTCY. This course focuses on the policies underlying federal bankruptcy law. Subjects covered will include the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy courts, an individual's right to discharge, the nature of the claims that are cognizable in bankruptcy, the rejection and assumption of executory contracts, the automatic stay, and the avoidance powers of the trustee. Because we shall not cover reorganizations under Chapter 11, students are urged to take this course in conjunction with Corporate Readjustments and Reorganizations. (4). Mr. Baird. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

427. BUSINESS PLANNING. The aim of this course is to apply the student's knowledge of taxation and corporation law to the solution of a series of transactional problems involving typical steps in corporate formation and rearrangement. The problems include the formation of a closely held corporation, the formation of a publicly owned corporation, stock redemption, the sale of a business, merger and other types of combination transactions, and recapitalization, division, and dissolution of corporations. Both small-group discussions and lectures will be employed. Students will be assigned to represent the interests of particular parties, negotiate transactions, and prepare the necessary documents. The student must have taken Corporation Law and Federal Taxation II. Spr (4). Mr. Hess, Mr. Krane.

428. ANTITRUST LAW. An introduction to the law of antitrust. After a brief consideration of the common law of restraint of trade and the basic antitrust statutes, the course focuses on the practices by which competing firms eliminate, or are alleged to eliminate, competition among themselves. The practices considered include formal cartels, price-fixing conspiracies, "conscious parallelism," trade association activities, resale price maintenance, cross-licensing of patents, and mergers to monopoly and other types of horizontal merger. The course also focuses on the practices by which firms exclude or are alleged to exclude actual or potential competitors from their markets. Among the practices considered are boycotts, tying arrangements and reciprocal buying, vertical integration, and price discrimination under the Robinson-Patman Act. Vertical and conglomerate mergers, and the modern cases dealing with the offense of monopolization are also discussed. Spr (4). Mr. Neal.

456. COPYRIGHT, TRADEMARKS, AND PATENTS. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance.

462. REGULATED INDUSTRIES. For course description refer to section on Administrative Law and Government Regulation.
430. REGULATION OF BANKING. This course is concerned with the federal regulation of national banks by the comptroller of the currency, the Federal Reserve Board, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Primary emphasis will be placed on the limitations and restrictions on the lending activities of commercial banks, with some comparative attention paid to the role of thrift institutions. Win (4). Mr. Fischel.

458. INSURANCE LAW. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance.

431. LABOR LAW I. The legal framework for collective bargaining, strikes, picketing, boycotts, lockouts, and other forms of self-help, examined in the context of pertinent historical, social, and economic considerations; regulation of the organizational process, selection of representatives for collective bargaining, and negotiation, administration, and enforcement of collective agreements, the relationships of the NLRB, courts, and Congress; problems of federalism. Aut (4). Mr. Holzhauer.

432. LABOR LAW II. A more intensive examination of the administration and enforcement of collective agreements, including the grievance-arbitration process, mediation and conciliation; and coordination of arbitration with external law; protection of individual interests in the negotiation and administration of collective agreements; the overlap and conflict between fair employment legislation, labor arbitration and the regulation of labor relations; protection of the community against intolerable stoppages; collective action and public employees; union government and administration, including admission, discipline, elections, fiduciary obligations; professional and ethical obligations in the tripartite relationships involved; inter-union relations; the regulation of political expenditures. Labor Law I (or the consent of the instructor, which will be given only in unusual situations) is a prerequisite. Win (4). Mr. Meltzer.

433. EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION. This course studies the prohibition of discrimination in the labor market, based on factors such as race, sex, religion, national origin, and age. The focus is on Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, with limited comparative treatment of the many other sources of protection from discrimination. Attention is given to substantive, procedural, and remedial issues, including unequal treatment, continuing effects of past unequal treatment, equal treatment with unequal impact, reprisals, affirmative action, goals, quotas, reverse discrimination, reinstatement, back pay, constructive seniority, job progression rules, attorneys’ fees, procedural obstacles, and class actions. Spr (4). Mr. Holzhauer.

435. PENSION LAW. The private pension system now has assets exceeding a trillion dollars, and pension accounts have become a fundamental means both of individual saving and of aggregate capital formation. This course examines the relation of the private pension system to the public systems (mostly Social Security), and it provides a brief overview of the tax treatment of pension plans. After characterizing the main types of plans, the course looks at the rules governing coverage, vesting, “integration” with Social Security, funding, plan administration, investment, and payout. Attention is given both to the common law (especially trust law) and to various bodies of regulatory law (especially the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [ERISA] as amended). The problems involved with terminating a pension plan and the pension issues that arise in a corporate acquisition or sale are particularly emphasized. The federal insurance scheme for defined benefit plans administered by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation will be examined. The course materials will include finance literature as well as statutory and case material. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

413. ADMIRALTY. For course description refer to section on Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure.

486. INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

487. INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC LAW. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

484. THE LAW OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

460. ADVANCED TORTS. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution and Insurance.

Seminars

521. SELECTED PROBLEMS IN COMMERCIAL LAW. The seminar focuses on problems that have arisen recently under the Bankruptcy Code. Topics will include the powers and duties of the bankruptcy trustee, the treatment of executory contracts, and debtor-in-possession financing, as well as issues raised by bankruptcy petitions filed by individuals. Students will be asked to write several memoranda in addition to a final examination. Win (4). Mr. Baird.
522. SECURITIES LITIGATION. This seminar explores problems in securities litigation. Unlike the Business Planning course, which presents problems in designing deals, this seminar concentrates on deals that have collapsed and spawned litigation. Each week's work revolves around a legal issue, such as the materiality of omissions from disclosure, the availability of rescission or other damages, and litigation as a response to a tender offer. To the extent possible, the seminar draws its materials from the briefs and records of cases now in litigation. Spr (4). Mr. Herzel.

524. WORKERS' COMPENSATION. This seminar explores the development of the law of industrial accidents from the first half of the nineteenth century until the modern time, using both English and American materials. Three major topics receive emphasis: (1) the rise of the tort law and its eventual displacement by a system of workers' compensation, (2) the internal operation of the workers' compensation system, with special attention to its coverage formulas, and (3) the response of the workers' compensation system to the cumulative trauma cases, with special attention to the coordination of tort and compensation remedies. (4). Mr. Epstein. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

557. INTERNATIONAL ANTITRUST. For seminar description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

561. WORKSHOP IN ECONOMIC AND LEGAL ORGANIZATION. For seminar description refer to section on Complementary Courses.

Taxation

Courses

441. FEDERAL TAXATION I. A tax on the income of persons, with rates graduated upward, is the most significant element in the tax system adopted by the federal government. This first course in federal taxation examines the structure of the current version of the income tax. It emphasizes the problems of determining what is to be treated as gross income for purposes of the tax, what offsets are to be allowed in arriving at the amount of net income upon which the tax is imposed, who will be required to include various items in income or be allowed to claim various deductions, and when these factors are to be reflected in computing income. Particular attention is devoted to the treatment of gains and losses from changes in the value of property. Five central questions are continuously under examination: (1) To what extent do tax rules mean something other than they appear to mean? (2) What policies underlie the mass of technical detail which characterizes the law? (3) How much change in conduct is needed to alter the tax consequences involved in pursuing various goals? (4) What criteria can be found for choosing among alternative tax policies under a progressive income tax? (5) Can one discover any directions in which tax policies and tax law are developing? Aut (5). Mr. Blum.

442. FEDERAL TAXATION II. This course builds upon the basic relationships and concepts looked at in Federal Taxation I. It deals primarily with the treatment of business profits under the income tax. The taxation of income generated by sole proprietorships and the problems of allocating the profits of a partnership to the partners for tax purposes are explored. The major part of the course is devoted to analyzing our dual system of taxing the incomes both of corporations and of their shareholders. Attention is particularly focused on the problems and consequences of taxing business income to an artificial entity as compared to taxing it directly to the owners of that entity; on the importance of tax considerations in business decisions; and on evaluating alternative policies for treating corporate profits under a tax system which subjects personal income to rates graduated upward. Spr (5). Mr. Isenbergh.

443. FEDERAL TAXATION III. The principal objective of this course is an examination of the federal estate and gift tax law and federal income taxation of decedents' estates and trusts. The course includes a study of various arrangements for the devolution of wealth, applying principles of the law of wills, trusts, future interests, and tax. The course seeks to develop an understanding of the process of estate planning—or choosing between alternative means of accomplishing client objectives regarding property disposition. Proposals for reform of the federal estate and gift tax law will be examined and compared to the existing law. Spr (4). Mr. Kanter.

444. PARTNERSHIP TAXATION. An examination of the system for taxing the income generated by ventures operated as partnerships. The issue of defining a partnership for tax purposes is explored. Attention is directed to the extent partners are permitted to allocate tax burdens among themselves. The tax treatment of limited partners is analyzed. Emphasis is placed on the tax advantages and disadvantages of operating as a partnership. The tax aspects of doing business as a partnership are contrasted with using a corporation which elects not to be taxed under the corporate income tax. Win (4). Mr. Blum.

445. INTERNATIONAL TAXATION. A survey of the income tax aspects (1) of investments and business operations of foreigners in the United States, and (2) of overseas investments and business operations of Americans. The principal focus will be on the U.S. tax system, but some attention will be devoted to the adjustments that are made between tax regimes of different countries through tax credits and tax treaties. Aut (4). Mr. Isenbergh.

446. STATE AND LOCAL TAXATION. A study of government finance in a federal state with an emphasis upon apportionment of tax resources among governmental units and including an examination of federal and state constitutional provisions, efforts at interstate co-operation, and proposed federal legislative solutions, together with a brief canvass of problems in the administration of typical state-local tax systems. (4). Mr. Lucas. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

455. LAND DEVELOPMENT. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance

427. BUSINESS PLANNING. For course description refer to section on Commercial, Business, and Labor Law.

Seminars

526. ADVANCED INTERNATIONAL TAXATION. A study of various income tax problems affecting overseas investments and business operations of American taxpayers: foreign personal holding companies, controlled foreign corporations, deferral, adjustments and reorganization involving foreign corporations. Some prior knowledge of corporate taxation and basic international taxation is essential. (4). Mr. Isenbergh. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance

Courses

451. FAMILY LAW IN TRANSITION IN THE UNITED STATES AND WESTERN EUROPE. This course explores the complex interaction of behavior, ideology and legal norms in selected areas of family law (including marital property and inheritance law). The principal inquiry concerns the relationship of change in family law to alterations in the economic and social roles of family members and shifts in the nature and forms of wealth. A major aim of the course is to encourage students to think creatively about current issues in the family law reform efforts. The course materials are drawn primarily from American, English, French, Scandinavian and West German sources. Multilithed coursebook. (4). [Not offered in 1985–86.]

452. DECEDENTS' ESTATES AND TRUSTS. The various means of gratuitous transfer of wealth—by will, by inter vivos transfer, and by operation of statute on intestacy. Part I: The policy bases of inheritance and of the Wills Act formalities. Part II: The common will substitutes—gift, joint account, joint tenancy, life insurance, revocable trust. Part III: Intestate succession and family protection. Part IV: Testamentary capacity and the formalities of drafting and revoking wills. Part V: Distinctive constructional doctrines of the law of wills. Part VI: The creation and termination of trusts and the duties of trustees, executors, and other fiduciaries. Part VII: Charitable trusts and foundations. Throughout the course the relevant portions of the Uniform Probate Code will be studied. Spr (4). Mr. Jones.

443. FEDERAL TAXATION III. For course description refer to section on Taxation.

435. PENSION LAW. For course description refer to section on Commercial, Business and Labor Law.

463. WELFARE LAW. For course description refer to section on Administrative Law and Government Regulation.

474. LEGAL PROBLEMS OF THE MENTALLY ILL. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

450. OIL AND GAS. The law relating to the exploration, production, and development of oil and gas. The principal topics covered are (1) ownership interests in natural resources, (2) leasing and field development, (3) the classification and transfer of production interests, and (4) regulation of field operation—pooling, unitization, and environmental controls. Post-production marketing controls—the subject of regulated industries—will not be covered. (4). Mr. Helmholz. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

453. NATURAL RESOURCES. A survey of the law relating to the development and the protection of America's natural resources, principally on the public lands. Rights in water, hard minerals and the law relating to grazing lands, timber and the law relating to the protection of wildlife and wilderness will be explored. A continuing theme will be the legal conflicts created by the desire both to consume and to conserve our natural resources. (4). Mr. Helmholz. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

454. LAND USE CONTROLS. This course examines the public and private control of land use and development. It covers such topics as zoning, subdivision regulation, building codes, nuisance law, and covenants. Special attention will be given to such contemporary problems as exclusionary zoning, the use of land controls for fiscal objectives, and the general constitutionalization of this field. Win (4). Mr. Holzhauer.

455. LAND DEVELOPMENT. Primary attention will be given to the legal tools for raising capital for real estate ventures. Emphasis will be given to the methods for liquidating a venture which has gone sour, and to the business and tax problems of real estate syndication. Prerequisite: Taxation I or permission of instructor. (4). Mr. Miller. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

456. COPYRIGHT, TRADEMARKS, AND PATENTS. This course deals with federal and state laws designed to protect against unfair competition and with the federal law of copyright, patents, and trademarks. It revolves around property interests in trade names, literary, musical, and other artistic works, inventions, and trade secrets. Aut (4). Mr. Landes.

414. REMEDIES. For course description refer to Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure.

458. INSURANCE LAW. The law of the insurance enterprise: its institutional and regulatory framework, the relationship of insurance to the evolution of legal doctrine in torts and other areas, the uses of insurance, its relationship to other financial transactions and institutions, the law of the insurance contract. Aut (4). Mr. Kimball.

457. RESTITUTION. The course is concerned with the legal and equitable remedies for redressing unjust enrichment, and with the principles determining the availability of such relief in the varied contexts in which a claim of unjust enrichment may plausibly be asserted. The problems examined cut across, but are not limited to, contracts and torts: they include receipt of unsolicited benefits; gains obtained through the use of ideas originated by others; restitution as an alternative remedy in consensual transactions affected by fraud, mistake, and part performance; and restitution of gains obtained through conduct that is independently tortious. (4). Mr. Jones. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

459. ADVANCED TORTS. The course explores the various legal theories designed to vindicate the protection of nonphysical interests. The first part of the course is devoted to affronts to personality, interference with freedom of action, and infliction of emotional distress. Thereafter, the attention is directed to the law of defamation, privacy, misrepresentation and economic losses. Throughout an effort is made to link these particular subject areas to the general theories of tort developed in the basic torts course and to specific forms of direct regulation designed to modify or displace the tort law. (4). Mr. Epstein. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

460. ENVIRONMENTAL LAW. This course is an overview of the efforts which have been made to use the legal system to protect the environment. Topics considered include the National Environmental Policy Act, the Clean Air Act, the Clean Water Act, the Toxic Substances Control Act, and “toxic torts.” The course may be viewed as a series of case studies in regulatory techniques as applied to pollution. Some attention is also given to theories of legislation and regulation. An administrative law background is helpful. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

Seminars

531. JUVENILE JUSTICE. This seminar will examine the principles and institutions of juvenile justice in the United States. Topics will include jurisdiction of juvenile courts in delinquency, child neglect and neglected children, and minors in need of supervision (e.g., truancy cases, runaways, etc.). Major emphasis will be placed on the institutions of juvenile justice: the courts, intake facilities, probation, detention, clinical services, community service agencies, and correctional institutions. Enrollment will be limited to fifteen students from the Law School and fifteen students from the School of Social Service Administration. (4). Mrs. Rosenheim. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

532. CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN FAMILY LAW. Each student enrolled in this seminar will prepare a paper on a family law issue and present it to the seminar. An organizational meeting will be held in the fall, and topics will be selected at that time. Presentations will be made during the winter quarter, and each student will distribute a first draft to the seminar prior to his or her presentation. Final drafts will be due in the spring. Participants will receive a broad exposure to family law issues, with an emphasis on issues being debated today, including mediation of various family disputes and the proper role of the legal system in responding to domestic violence. An as introduction to basic family law issues, some readings will be assigned. Enrollment will be limited to eighteen students. Win (4). Ms. Becker.

533. LEGAL PROBLEMS OF HEALTH CARE. With health care consuming over 10% of the GNP, there is no shortage of problems to discuss. Those chosen will emphasize the insurance or insurance-like aspects of the subject. Some possible choices are: financing of health care, through individual or group commercial insurance, Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Medicare and Medicaid, health maintenance organizations and preferred provider organizations; coverage problems, such as mandated coverage, first dollar vs. catastrophe, deductibles and coinsurance; regulation, including control of pharmaceuticals and experimental procedures, of hospitals, of policy terms and premium rates, human experimentation, definition of death; medical malpractice, including commercial insurance and market failures, captive insurers, legislative intervention. Win (4). Mr. Kimball.

534. MINING LAW. Selected problems in the law of mineral development, excluding oil and gas. The principal focus will be on the public lands. An introductory section of the seminar will be devoted to the statutory framework governing mining development. Enrollment will be limited to twelve students. Spr (4). Mr. Helmholz.

535. RIGHTS IN SUNKEN TREASURE. An exploration of the law governing rights in sunken vessels and their contents, including a consideration of the contribution of the common law of finds, of wreck, and of treasure trove, the law of marine salvage, and the law governing archeological excavation and artifacts. Win (4). Mr. Lucas.

537. SELECTED PROBLEMS IN SEX DISCRIMINATION. For seminar description refer to the section on Administrative Law and Government Regulation.

524. WORKERS’ COMPENSATION. For seminar description refer to section on Commercial, Business, and Labor Law.

Administrative Law and Government Regulation

Courses

461. ADMINISTRATIVE LAW. Administrative law is the law that governs administrative agencies, including executive departments, in their complex tasks of carrying out governmental programs.
Governmental control of private activities, especially of economic life, seems to be everywhere increasing. Legislative bodies determine the general programs, and agencies make them more specific through making rules, adjudicating cases, investigating, prosecuting, and supervising. The main focus of administrative law is on procedural safeguards and on the allocation and control of power, including the structuring, checking, and confining of discretion. A central inquiry repeated in many contexts is how to accommodate procedural fairness to the efficient accomplishment of legislative purposes. The constant quest is for understanding principles of exertion of governmental power and principles of justice that cut across functions of federal, state, and local agencies and their relations with reviewing courts and with legislative and executive authorities. Win (4). Mr. Sunstein.

462. REGULATED INDUSTRIES. This course surveys the traditional methods of regulation—cost of service ratemaking, allocations of goods, price control and entry control—as well as some of the newer methods, such as disclosure, emissions standard setting, taxation, and no regulation at all.
Each method is associated with one or more agencies, for example, ratemaking with the ICC and standard setting with the EPA. The course examines the law and operations of the agencies to the extent necessary to bring out the functions of, and problems with, each approach to regulation. The scope of the course precludes a detailed investigation of any particular system of regulation. Administrative Law is helpful as background but is not a prerequisite. Win (4). Mr. McConnell.

463. WELFARE LAW. This course focuses on several major government programs designed to meet the cash income needs of individuals and families, including both the more important ones that employ an eligibility test explicitly measuring need (AFDC, the new Supplemental Security Income program, and general assistance) and Social Security. Recent proposals for welfare reform will be analyzed. Several legal themes will recur and furnish bases for comparing programs: (1) the nature of an individual’s rights to the benefits being distributed; (2) the opportunities for legal representation in claim disputes; (3) the administrative and judicial mechanisms for enforcing federal standards against the states and state standards against local agencies; and (4) the degree to which eligibility and benefit amount depend on state doctrines of family or property law. Spr (4). Mr. McConnell.

464. THE LEGISLATIVE PROCESS. This course will study legislation as a complementary system of lawmaking to the common law. The course will consider the history of legislation, the rules and procedures of legislatures (particularly the U.S. Congress), economic and political science theories of the role of interest groups and the public interest in legislation, the judicial interpretation of statutes (with special reference to the “canons of construction”), the division of functions between courts and legislatures, and, more mundanely, the methods for studying legislative histories. Spr (4). Judge Posner.

406. STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT. For course description refer to section on Constitutional Law.
430. Regulation of Banking. For course description refer to section on Commercial, Business, and Labor Law.

458. Insurance Law. For course description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance.

428. Antitrust Law. For course description refer to section on Commercial, Business, and Labor Law.

432. Labor Law II. For course description refer to section on Commercial, Business, and Labor Law.

486. International Business Transactions. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

487. International Economic Law. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

484. The Law of the European Community. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

506. Legislative Process. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

510. Separation of Powers. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

536. Law Concerning American Indians. Status of Indian tribes and bands under treaty and statute; status of individual Indians; self-government of tribes and bands; criminal law, business regulation, and taxation of activities engaged in by Indians and others on and off reservations; Indian land tenure and problems concerning the alienation of land; and the civil rights of Indians under the Constitution and statutes. (4). Mr. Lucas. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

537. Selected Problems in Sex Discrimination. Each student enrolled in this seminar will prepare a paper on a sex discrimination issue and present it to the seminar. An organizational meeting will be held in the fall, and topics will be selected at that time. Presentations will be made during the winter quarter, and each student will distribute a first draft to the seminar prior to his or her presentation. Final drafts will be due in the spring, so that students will have an opportunity to improve their papers based on comments by fellow students and faculty. As an introduction to sex discrimination issues, some readings will be assigned. A list of topics will be provided, though students will be free to suggest their own. Various types of sex discrimination issues will be considered, including the ERA and its history, comparable worth, the toxic workplace, and family law issues. The seminar will be taught in one or two sections, depending on enrollment. Enrollment in each section will be limited to eighteen students. (4). Ms. Becker. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure

Courses

471. The Criminal Justice System. A study of the operation of the criminal justice system and of problems in its reform. The primary purpose is to study the operation of the criminal justice system as a whole and to understand its relationships; a subsidiary purpose is to train the student in the critical assessment of research data bearing on that system and on its reform. Topics will include the definition and measurement of crime, aspects of the function of the police, pretrial criminal procedures, plea negotiations, and sentencing convicted offenders. Spr (4). Mr. Morris.

472. Criminal Procedure I. The focus of this course is on the constitutional law that governs searches, seizures, and confessions. Considered in some detail, and with attention to historical background, are the evolution of the exclusionary rule, the development and administration of the probable cause and the warrant requirements, and such particular topics as: stop and frisk, administrative searches, searches incident to arrest, vehicle searches, standing, consent, and the suppression of fruits of an illegal search. The right to counsel and confessions are examined more briefly. Special attention is given to areas where the Fourth and Fifth amendments interact: wiretapping and bugging, secret agents, and entrapment. This course is offered in alternate years. Aut (4). Mr. Schulhofer.
473. CRIMINAL PROCEDURE II. Unlike Criminal Procedure I, which focuses on the investigation of criminal cases, this course focuses on what happens after police investigations have been concluded. It considers such topics as bail and preventive detention, the right to counsel, the prosecutor's decision to charge, grand jury screening, the right to a speedy trial, pretrial discovery, joinder and severance, plea bargaining, prejudicial pretrial publicity, the right to jury trial, freedom from double jeopardy, the right to appeal, and post-conviction remedies including federal habeas corpus. The final portion of the course is devoted to a brief comparative examination of criminal procedure in the Federal Republic of Germany. Students need not have taken Criminal Procedure I to enroll in this course. Spr (4). Mr. Aischuler.

416. EVIDENCE. For course description refer to section on Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure.

474. LEGAL PROBLEMS OF THE MENTALLY ILL. An examination of law and practice concerning the mentally disabled criminal; competence to stand trial; civil commitment of the mentally ill and retarded; the civil rights and liberties of patients in mental hospitals, including the right to treatment and the right to refuse treatment; and certain legal aspects of the psychiatrist-patient relationship, including confidentiality and the civil liability of psychiatrists for errors of professional judgment. (4). Mr. Morris. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

476. DEVELOPMENT OF LEGAL INSTITUTIONS. For course description refer to section on Legal History and Jurisprudence.

483. COMPARATIVE LEGAL INSTITUTIONS: GERMANY. For course description refer to section on Comparative and International Law.

Seminars

541. POLICE PRACTICES AND THE LAW. This seminar will examine a variety of controls—constitutional, statutory, administrative, and judicial—of police behavior with a view to understanding their efficacy in striking a proper balance between State authority and individual autonomy in crime control. Topics to be discussed will include undercover operations, intelligence operations, the use of lethal force by the police, and the control of police abuse of power and corruption. Attention will also be devoted to the role of political influence on police organization, recruitment, and functions. Care will be taken to minimize overlap with the Criminal Justice System course. Class presentation and discussion of some tentative seminar papers will be required, as will the submission of a final seminar paper. (4). Mr. Morris. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

531. JUVENILE JUSTICE. For seminar description refer to section on Advanced Courses in Family Law, Property Rights, Restitution, and Insurance.

542. THE COMMITMENT OF THE MENTALLY ILL AND RETARDED. This seminar will examine the jurisprudence and practice of compulsory and voluntary commitment of the mentally ill and retarded, adult and juvenile, to State institutions, together with their rights to treatment and to refuse particular treatments and the processes available, judicial and administrative, to give substance to those rights. The commitment, treatment and release of those found unfit to stand trial and those found not guilty by reason of insanity will also be considered; but the focus will not be on the criminal law rules and procedures that define and produce those groups but rather, like civilly committed patients, on the conditions of their detention and the rules and practices governing their release. Visits will be arranged to commitment courts and to Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities institutions. A paper will be required. (4). Mr. Morris. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

544. PREDICTION IN CRIMINAL LAW AND MENTAL HEALTH LAW. This seminar will address the empirical and jurisprudential problems in the prediction of "dangerousness" and of "safety" in the criminal law and the law relating to mental health. The roles of such predictions, express and implicit, in these areas of the law will be discussed, their constitutional and ethical implications analyzed, and the proper constraints on their application explored. Materials for class discussion will be available. A paper will be required. (4). Mr. Morris. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

545. PLEA BARGAINING AND ITS ALTERNATIVES. This seminar will examine the American plea bargaining system and explore possibilities for its reform or abolition. After attention to the requirements for a valid plea and related safeguards under current law, the seminar will focus upon empirical studies examining the effects of plea bargaining and upon evaluations of beneficial and harmful consequences. The seminar will then give sustained attention to proposals for such reforms as a preplea conference, victim participation, procedural simplification, an adversary bench trial, and outright abolition along the lines of the German or Alaskan models. Students may elect to write either a research paper or an examination. Aut (4). Mr. Schulhofer.

566. SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH AND LAW. For seminar description refer to section on Complementary Courses.
Legal History and Jurisprudence

Courses

476. Development of Legal Institutions. An introductory course in the historical background of Anglo-American law, with particular emphasis on the development of criminal and civil procedure in the centuries before the American Revolution. Topics: (I) Jury system: origins; European alternatives; passivization; the rise of the law of jury control. (II) Civil justice: the forms of action and the pleading system; attorneys, bar and bench; the regular and itinerant courts; the yearbooks, law reporting, and the legal treatise; Chancery, the trust, and equitable procedure and remedies; the deterioration of Chancery procedure and the fusion of law and equity. (III) Criminal justice: medieval criminal procedure; presentment and indictment; the recasting of criminal procedure in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries; the officialization of prosecution and policing; Star Chamber and High Commission; defense counsel and the privilege against self-incrimination; the adversary system, compulsory process, and the law of evidence; criminal sanctions. Spr (4). Mr. Helmholz.

477. English Constitutional History. This course will deal with topics in English law and government over the period 1066-1688. Emphasis will fall particularly on continuities and discontinuities between medieval and early modern history. Topics will include: English feudalism, especially in relation to the resources and techniques of government; conception and functions of the royal office; the King's Council; history of Parliament; public finance; the Church as a branch of government and in relation to secular government. Readings will consist of sources and secondary literature. Discussion will be centered on the interpretation of major documents. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

478. Legal History: Contract and Tort. A course devoted to the study of the doctrinal development of the main substantive fields of the common law. Topics are taken primarily but not entirely from the period before the separation of English and American law. The history of contract law will predominate, with particular attention to the origins of assumpsit and its derivatives, the development of the consideration rules, and the long-delayed formation of the law of damages. (4). Mr. Simpson. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

479. Jurisprudence. This course will be concerned with a number of topics of central importance to the controversies surrounding the nature of law. These will include positivism and its critics, the nature of legal obligation, law and its relationship to force, law and morality, theories of natural law and natural rights, the nature of legal decisions, legal authority and validity, iconoclastic views of the law. Aut (4). Mr. Gottlieb.

480. Blackstone's Commentaries. The object of the course is simply to read through the Commentaries and discuss them. In view of the work's bulk, discussion will focus on the parts of greatest philosophical or historical interest, but the course is meant to be book-centered, so it does not take off from any a priori position as to where the greatest general interest actually lies. Students will be expected to write a roughly "article size" paper, the nature of which may be essayistic, as opposed to a research paper; the writing should come out of the reading. The paper is the only formal requirement. Spr (4). Mr. Gray.

481. Roman Law. An examination of selected topics in the Roman law of contracts, torts (delict), property, and procedure. Topics will be selected in order to shed light on the relationship between common-law and Roman law treatment of certain problems of current interest. The seminar is not designed to provide a comprehensive knowledge of all the detailed workings of Roman law. No knowledge of Latin will be required for the seminar. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

482. American Constitutional History. For course description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

492. Economic Analysis of Law. For course description refer to section on Complementary Courses.

410. Lectures on the Legal Profession. For course description refer to section on Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure.

Seminars

548. European Legal History. A reading seminar designed to provide students of Anglo-American legal history with a basis for comparative study. Part I: The sources of European law in the Middle Ages—canon law, vulgar Roman law, Germanic law, feudal law, urban law. Part II: The revival of Roman law in Italy and the differentiation of the national legal systems in the North. Part III: The "reception of Roman law" in the Renaissance. Part IV: The assimilation of Roman law and the origins of the codification movement. (Prerequisites: Law 476, Development of Legal Institutions, or Law 481, Roman Law. Students with adequate command of German, French, Italian, or Dutch may substitute a paper for the examination.) (4). Mr. Langbein. [Not offered in 1985-86.]
549. RESEARCH IN ENGLISH LEGAL HISTORY. The seminar provides an opportunity for intensive research and writing in the legal history of the early modern period. Enrollment is very small, research is supervised, and papers normally go through several drafts. The object is to produce work of publishable quality, primarily on topics connected with the history of criminal and civil procedure in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Among the questions suitable for investigation: changes in the jury system, such as the decline of the grand jury; juror selection; the feigned issue; the development and scope of various rules of evidence, such as the disqualification of parties for interest; the origins of compulsory process for witnesses; the Statute of Frauds of 1677; the development of the right to defense counsel and other safeguards in the criminal process; the growth of appellate review for insufficiency of the evidence; the expansion of the lawyer's role from pleading to trial advocacy. Prerequisite: Law 476, Development of Legal Institutions, or the permission of the instructor. Writing is likely to extend over the Winter and Spring Quarters. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

550. ENGLISH LEGAL HISTORY. Students will write and present papers on topics of their choice. The following areas of enquiry are, however, recommended as suitable for limited research projects: the early history of the Inns of Court and legal education, the evolution of law reporting, Blackstone's work as interpreted by critical legal studies, Benthamite influence on law reform, the rise of regulatory law, the Victorian legal profession, the evolution of the court of chancery, bankruptcy and insolvency, the development of copyright law, Marxist interpretations of legal history, the feminist movement and nineteenth century law reform, the regulation of charities, the history of strict liability in tort law. Spr (4). Mr. Jones, Mr. Simpson.

551. ANGLO-AMERICAN LEGAL HISTORY. Starting from Julius Goebel's thesis that the American colonists adopted the laws and procedures of English local and ecclesiastical courts rather than those of the chief common law courts at Westminster, this seminar will examine court records from both sides of the Atlantic to test the validity of the thesis. The broader purpose of the seminar will be to understand something of the way our law has developed. Topics for investigation will be the basic areas of the law: contract, torts, criminal law, property, and procedure. Secondary as well as record sources will be used. (4). Mr. Helmholtz. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

553. INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN LEGAL HISTORY. This seminar treats the foundations of American law from the initial transference of English legal institutions in the colonial period down to the drafting of the American constitution. Particular attention is devoted to the historical background of the judicial institutions of Article III of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Part I: The reception of English law. Part II: Colonial legal development with special attention to the jury system, civil and criminal procedure, equity, and the legacy of colonial governance and privy council appeal. Part III: English and American sources on the idea of Fundamental Law and the origins of the doctrine of judicial review. Part IV: The English and colonial antecedents of the First and the Fourth through Eighth Amendments. Students will read original sources and historical literature and will write two papers. (4). Mr. Langbein. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

503. AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

552. LEGAL HISTORY: THE SUPREME COURT AND THE JURY GUARANTEES. This seminar will be devoted to the Supreme Court's handling of historical evidence bearing on the scope and application of the Sixth Amendment right to criminal jury trial and the Seventh Amendment right to civil jury trial. We shall commence with the Sixth Amendment, where the court has felt itself less bound by history, but we shall emphasize the Seventh Amendment, whose language of "preservation" has been treated as constitutionalizing the English law/equity division of 1791. Topics for seminar discussion and for research and writing: the history of the drafting and adoption of the two amendments; the functional interpretation of the criminal jury guarantee, especially in the jury size and nonunanimous verdict cases of the past two decades; the origins and merits of the "1791 standard" for civil jury trial; shifts in the law/equity standard before and after fusion; the problem of novel and statutory causes of action; the complex cases controversy in modern law; and the history and potential of the special jury. (4). Mr. Langbein. [Not offered in 1985-86.]

555. RESEARCH IN AMERICAN LEGAL HISTORY. This seminar provides an opportunity for supervised research and writing in American legal history. Topics are settled upon by agreement with one of the instructors, and may include doctrinal development, the history of civil and criminal procedure, or institutional issues. The student will prepare a topic analysis based on preliminary research, then proceed to further research and a first draft. Most papers go through several drafts, and the process usually extends across most of the academic year. The object is to produce work of publishable quality, and steps are taken to place successful work in suitable journals. It is strongly advised that students complete one or more of the basic courses in legal history before enrolling for this seminar. (4). [Not offered in 1985–86.]

563. REALISM AND FORMALISM. By an examination of the history of “legal realism” from Bentham to Holmes to Jerome Frank and beyond, contrasted with the school of “formalism” of Blackstone, Langdell, and their contemporary successors, the seminar will explore the actual and the ideal limits on the freedom of judges to translate their personal preferences into law. Win (4). Judge Posner.

564. LAW AND SOCIAL CHANGE: 1954–1974. This seminar will examine the legal response to social and political change in the era from Brown v. Board of Education to Watergate. Students will prepare and present papers on such topics as the Desegregation of Little Rock, the Civil Rights Movement, the Warren Commission Report, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, Anti-War Demonstrations, the Conspiracy Trial, Kent State, the Pentagon Papers, FBI Surveillance of the New Left, and Watergate. Win (4). Mr. Stone.

565. MORALITY AND THE LAW. The seminar will be concerned with general theories of the relation between law and morality, principally in relation to the criminal law, and will then consider the specific applications of these theories in relation to selected topics, in particular, pornography, the defense of necessity, and the problems generated by medical techniques employed for the relief of infertility. Win (4). Mr. Simpson.

510. SEPARATION OF POWERS. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

518. THE JUDICIAL PROCESS. For seminar description refer to section on Courts, Jurisdiction and Procedure.

500. CONSTITUTIONAL THEORY AND INTERPRETATION. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

504. SUPREME COURT HISTORY. For seminar description refer to section on Constitutional Law.

Comparative and International Law

Courses

483. COMPARATIVE LEGAL INSTITUTIONS: GERMANY. A course designed to acquaint students with the nonadversarial legal institutions of the Continent as exemplified in the West German system. Part I: The law professionals, with emphasis on legal education, judicial selection, the prosecutorial career, and the structure of the bar. Part II: Criminal procedure, with particular attention to the scheme forbidding the exercise of prosecutorial discretion. Part III: Civil procedure. Part IV: Codification and the significance of case law in a code system. The course materials are in English. Students with adequate command of German may substitute a research paper for the examination. Enrollment limited to 40 students, preference to third-year students and to second-year students with foreign language backgrounds who anticipate doing subsequent law school work in comparative law. (4). Mr. Langbein. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

481. ROMAN LAW. For course description refer to section on Legal History and Jurisprudence.

484. THE LAW OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY. The course will examine the history of the European communities, the nature of community lawmaking, and the relationship between community law and the law of the member countries, as well as questions concerning harmonization of laws. In addition to studying the legal, political, and economic development of this new type of international (supranational? federal?) organization, the course will attempt to analyze its impact on the “outside” world. Aut (4). Mr. Steindorff.

485. INTERNATIONAL LAW. The basic introductory course in international legal studies. Students will be acquainted with the nature and functions of law in a system devoid of effective adjudication and enforcement techniques. The basic course in international law is designed to familiarize students with the character and nature of law applicable in relations between states and in international organizations. The sources of international law will be emphasized together with the law of international agreements and treaties. Emphasis will also be placed on the position of individuals in the international legal order, the legal control of international conflicts, and the character and function of United Nations organs. Aut (4). Mr. Gottlieb.

486. INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS. This course will cover both trade and investment regimes as they affect business transactions in international commerce. On the trade side, it will include an examination of the GATT; tariff and nontariff barriers to imports; escape clauses; dumping; and nondiscrimination obligations. The investment part of the course will cover laws dealing with investments of aliens in the United States and laws of other countries and regional groups (particularly developing countries) concerning foreign investments within their jurisdictions. No prerequisites. (4). [Not offered in 1985–86.]
487. INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC LAW. A study of the development and framework for the conduct of international economic relations. Emphasis will be placed on the international monetary system and international financial institutions. Attention will be given to the emergence of international economic order governing expropriation, economic coercion, and the sharing of resources. Legal aspects of concession and other agreements concluded with foreign governments will be analyzed together with other questions about the responsibility of States. (4). Mr. Gottlieb. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

488. INTERNATIONAL LAW AND THE RESTATEMENT. This class will focus on issues and problems of international law with special attention to the current work of the American Law Institute in revising the restatement of the foreign relations law. Spr (4). Mr. Meessen.

445. INTERNATIONAL TAXATION. For course description refer to section on Taxation.

Seminars

554. PRIMITIVE LAW. The subject of the seminar is legal concepts, rules, procedures, and institutions in ancient and primitive societies, such as those of ancient Greece and Rome, tribal Africa, and North American Indians, as described by anthropologists such as Maine, Gluckman, Driver, Fallers, and Hoebel. Particular attention will be paid to methods of dispute resolution, to criminal and contract law, to the role of custom as a source of law, and to the applicability of modern ideas of economic rationality to premodern societies. Modern parallels in such areas as international law and the law of arbitration will also be considered. There will be a reading list as well as distribution of some mimeographed materials and each student enrolled in the seminar will be expected to write a substantial paper. (4). Judge Posner. [Not offered in 1985–86.]

548. EUROPEAN LEGAL HISTORY. For seminar description refer to section on Legal History and Jurisprudence.

559. INTERNATIONAL LAW AND THE USE OF FORCE IN U.S. FOREIGN POLICY. This seminar will focus on the relation between law and politics that exists when a government uses force to attain political ends. Attention will be paid to the 1983 invasion of Grenada and other instances in U.S. history. Win (4). Mr. Gottlieb.

526. ADVANCED INTERNATIONAL TAXATION. For seminar description refer to section on Taxation.

557. INTERNATIONAL ANTITRUST. This seminar will examine in detail two different aspects of the operation of antitrust laws at the international level. First, it will consider the extraterritorial reach of the United States antitrust laws. Second, it will examine foreign laws, with an emphasis on the law of the European Economic Community. Finally, the course will offer a brief overview of concerted international efforts to regulate anticompetitive business practices. Antitrust Law is a prerequisite. (4). [Not offered in 1985–86.]

Complementary Courses

Courses

492. ECONOMIC ANALYSIS OF LAW. A survey of the application of basic economic principles to problems in the law. The topics covered in the course include the following: the choice between property rights and liability rules; the Coase theorem; the allocative effects of alternative liability rules (e.g., strict liability versus negligence); the determination of damages for breach of contract; the economics of altruism and its relevance to rescue doctrines; the economics of crime and punishment; and the economics of legal procedure. No prior acquaintance with economics is assumed; the relevant economic concepts are developed through an examination of particular legal applications. Spr (4). Mr. Landes.

494. ACCOUNTING. The course is primarily concerned with a study of the major topics making up the body of "generally accepted accounting principles" and the manner in which they enter into legal problems. Introductory material on the record-keeping process and form of financial statements is followed by an analysis of major problem areas: revenue recognition, inventory accounting, depreciation, accounting for debt instruments and for corporate capital. The course is concluded with a section on analysis and interpretation of financial statements. Published corporate financial reports, Opinions of the Accounting Principles Board of the American Institute of CPA's, and Accounting Series Releases of the SEC are used as the basic accounting materials for analysis. Aut (4). Mr. Davidson.

495. STATISTICS AND THE LAW. An introductory course on the theory and methods of statistical analysis and its applications in law. Both descriptive and inferential statistical methods will be treated, with emphasis on applications such as the weighing of uncertain evidence, the evaluation of social innovations, and the role and ethical limitations of controlled experiments in medicine. Topics will include estimation, hypothesis testing, and regression analysis and its interpretation. There will be a laboratory on applications to experimental and observational data in which interactive computation resources (remote consoles) will be provided. A year of college level mathematics would be helpful but is not essential. No prior experience with computational methods is expected. (4). [Not offered in 1985-86.]

474. LEGAL PROBLEMS OF THE MENTALLY ILL. For course description refer to section on Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure.

Seminars

560. WORKSHOP IN LAW AND ECONOMICS. This workshop is devoted to the intensive examination of selected problems in the application of economic reasoning to a wide variety of legal questions. Workshop sessions will be devoted to the presentation and discussion of papers by students and by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago and of other institutions. The workshop will meet every other week throughout the academic year. Students enrolled in the workshop will receive six credits for satisfactory completion of a substantial paper. Aut (2), Win (2), Spr (2). Mr. Fischel, Mr. Landes.

561. WORKSHOP IN ECONOMIC AND LEGAL ORGANIZATION. This workshop is devoted to the examination of selected problems in the structure and behavior of industries, with special emphasis on the role of government regulation, and to the application of economic reasoning to legal questions in such fields of law as contracts, torts, and antitrust. Workshop sessions will be devoted to the presentation and discussion of papers primarily by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago and of other institutions. The workshop will meet every week throughout the academic year. Students enrolled in the workshop will receive six credits for satisfactory completion of a substantial paper. Aut (2), Win (2), Spr (2). Mr. Landes, Mr. Peltzman, Mr. Stigler.

566. SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH AND LAW. This seminar will examine the impact of empirical research on the resolution of various legal problems. With each topic (e.g., school integration, correctional programs, capital punishment, obscenity laws), the seminar will review the relevant social science literature, assess the impact of this literature on the actions and attitudes of legal decision makers, and consider the extent to which empirical findings should guide the formulation of policy in the area under consideration. The seminar will also assess in more general terms the role of empiricism in producing and evaluating social change. No background in statistical methodology or in the social sciences is necessary. A paper will be required. The text will be Social Science in Law: Cases and Materials by Monahan and Walker (1985). Spr (4). Mr. Alschuler, Mr. Morris.

Students are also reminded of the opportunity to take up to eight course hours of work for Law School credit in other departments and schools of the University. The conditions of the exercise of this option are explained in the section on Requirements and Grading. Courses that students may take include but are not limited to the following.

Independent Study

499. INDIVIDUAL RESEARCH. In addition to the opportunities for writing research papers afforded in many of the seminars listed, second- and third-year students may earn course credit by independent research under the supervision of a member of the faculty. Such projects (commonly known as "499 papers") are arranged by consultation between the student and the particular member of the faculty in whose field the proposed topic falls. Special rules regarding credit, permission, and requirements for submission of written work are set forth in the regulations of the Law School. Students wishing to register for 499 credit should consult the Dean of Students.

Written work is not a formal requirement for the J.D. degree, but students are encouraged to include some such work in their programs and most students do so, either through participation in a seminar or through 499 credit. Students are encouraged to submit outstanding papers for publication in the Law Review or in other legal periodicals.

Before being granted permission to register for 499 work the student must submit a précis of his or her proposed study to the supervising faculty member. In considering possible fields or topics for such projects, students may wish to consider seminars described above but listed as not offered in the current year and to consult the instructors concerned as to the possibility of independent work in those fields.
