

National Moot-Court Competition

This year The Law School team won second-place honors in the third annual National Inter-Law School Moot-Court Competition. Sponsored by the Committee on Junior Bar Activities of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the competition was extended to sixty-two law schools, with fifteen schools participating in the final rounds and the winning place going to Georgetown University Law School.

The Chicago participants were Jean Allard of Trenton, Missouri; George B. Beall, of Dallas, Texas; and Paul N. Wenger, Jr., of West Hartford, Connecticut. The issue before the Moot Supreme Court was the validity of a state law prohibiting aliens ineligible to become citizens from owning land within the state. Chicago, defending the validity of the law, defeated Western Reserve in the preliminary round, the University of Arizona in the second round, and Vanderbilt in the semifinals.

Judges in the final round were: Mr. Justice Stanley F.

Reed; The Honorable John J. Parker, Chief Judge, U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit; The Honorable Leslie Knox Munro, Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary for New Zealand; The Honorable Stanley H. Fuld, Judge of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York; The Honorable David W. Peck, Presiding Justice, Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, New York; and The Honorable Bethuel M. Webster, President, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

The Chicago contestants, as runners-up, were individually presented with copies of Restatement of the Law; and for presenting the best brief in the competition the Chicago team got a year's subscription to Shepards for Illinois. Jean Allard, for presenting the second-best oral argument, was presented with a copy of Uniform Laws Annotated.

The Chicago team was the guest at lunch of White and Case, and Sidney Davis '42 gave the near-winners a consolation luncheon on the day after.
