The Chicago Journal of International Law ("CJIL") (ISSN 1529-0816) is published twice yearly, in the summer and the winter, by students at The University of Chicago Law School. The views expressed herein are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect those of CJIL or The University of Chicago.

Subscriptions: Subscriptions cost $40 per year for domestic addresses and $45 per year for foreign addresses. Subscription and back issue information is available online at <http://cjil.uchicago.edu/subscriptions.html>.

Submissions: CJIL seeks to publish articles making a significant, original contribution to the field of international law and policy. In addition, the journal will consider book reviews on a limited basis. Submissions should be sent to the Topics & Submissions Editor electronically through the ExpressO online submission system at <http://www.law.bepress.com/lexpresso> or directly to CJIL by email at cjil@law.uchicago.edu or regular mail. Submission deadlines are July 1 for the winter issue and January 1 for the summer issue. CJIL does not currently accept unsolicited student work.

Editorial Policy: CJIL is committed to publishing timely and concise scholarly work. CJIL prefers that manuscripts not exceed 18,000 words. We discourage superfluous and tedious citations. Where a source can be discerned easily from the context, the source need not be cited.
