I. HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

This will mark the forty-ninth year of operation of the University of Chicago Law School.

A school of law and jurisprudence was contemplated in the original plan for the University of Chicago. The school should, according to William Rainey Harper, the first president of the University, be more than a training institution for admission to the bar. An education in law, President Harper said, "implies a scientific knowledge of law and of legal and juristic methods. These are the crystallization of ages of human progress. They cannot be understood in their entirety without a clear comprehension of the historic forces of which they are the product, and of the social environment with which they are in living contact. A scientific study of law involves the related sciences of history, economics, philosophy—the whole field of man as a social being." Consequently, the law school was not to be an institution which had a merely nominal connection with the University, and it was not to be separated either by location or spirit from the University at large. It should be an organic part of the University, in close touch with the other divisions, embodying the spirit and purpose of University life and, in turn, contributing to that life.

In 1902 President Harper's plan was approved by the Trustees, and the Law School was opened in October of that year. The goal of the School as stated in the first Announcements was "to afford adequate preparation for the practice of law as a profession in any jurisdiction in which the common law prevails, and to cultivate and encourage the scientific study of systematic and comparative jurisprudence, legal history, and principles of legislation."

The first Dean was Joseph Henry Beale. In 1904 Mr. Beale was succeeded by James Parker Hall, who continued as Dean until his death in 1928. In 1929 Harry A. Bigelow, a member of the Faculty since 1904, was appointed Dean and served in that capacity until his retirement in 1939. Wilber G. Katz was the Dean of the School from 1939 until his resignation, June, 1950. He is succeeded as Dean by Edward H. Levi.

The University of Chicago Law School has been a member of the Association of American Law Schools since the School was founded in 1902. It has been on the approved list of the American Bar Association since the standards of that association were adopted in 1921.

II. GENERAL STATEMENT

The Law School adopted in 1949 a new program, consisting of three years of basic study leading to the Bachelor of Laws degree (LL.B.), and a fourth year of advanced and specialized work leading to the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.). The new program is the result of experience under the four-year curriculum adopted in 1937 and incorporates the distinguishing features of that curriculum. The research program leading to the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.S.D.) continues unchanged.
The objectives of the School are to give training to law students not only as future advocates and counselors, but also as future administrators, legislators, or judges, or as men who, though their careers may lie primarily in the field of business, will have important responsibilities for the operation of the legal order. The program also reflects the School's recognition of its responsibility to contribute to the solution of legal and social problems through research and effective criticism.

The 1937 program reflected the conviction of the faculty that instruction in traditional legal fields and techniques is no longer sufficient for legal education. Law should be studied in relation to the data and theory of social sciences; the students' understanding of law should be deepened through the study of philosophy, legal history, and comparative law; individual training should be given in research and writing; and the students' capacities for independent work should be further developed in advanced seminars.

Experience has shown how the basic objectives of the four-year program may be achieved in three years. The relative importance of the various legal fields and topics has been reappraised in the light of changing responsibilities of the profession. Overlapping of courses has been reduced. Integrated presentation of legal and social science materials and use of a variety of teaching techniques have resulted in further economy of time. The tutorial program of supervised individual training in research has been used for covering problems of substantive law.

Accordingly, the revised basic curriculum incorporates the traditional legal fields and disciplines essential to the work of the lawyer. It includes also instruction in accounting, legal and constitutional history, jurisprudence, economic analysis, international organization, comparative law, and psychology. And it offers a three-year sequence of supervised individual work covering research, exposition, drafting, moot court, analyses of financial statements, industry studies, and planning of estates and business transactions. In this work the student will be freed from the arbitrary divisions of course instruction and will deal with the varied legal aspects of a series of problems placed in a realistic setting.
III. THE BACHELOR OF LAWS (LL.B.) PROGRAM

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) is awarded to students who (1) have been in residence for nine quarters, (2) have shown by their standing in the annual examinations and by their individual investigations and reports a mastery of the fields included in the required program, (3) have shown an adequate mastery of English, and (4) have successfully completed the work in the elective seminars or equivalent individual work approved by the Faculty.

Work toward the LL.B. will not be offered in the Summer Quarters.

ADMISSION OF STUDENTS

Application for admission to the LL.B. Program may be made by students who will have received a Bachelor's degree from an approved college or the A.B. degree from the University of Chicago prior to entering Law School. Students who do not plan to receive a Bachelor's degree before starting their law studies may be given the opportunity to qualify for admission on the basis of their performance on the University's General Education Test. Students with outstanding records may be excused from the General Education Test by the Committee on Admissions. Only in most exceptional cases will admission through the General Education Test be granted to an applicant who has not had three years of college work. Admission to the LL.B. Program will be in the Autumn Quarter only.

Applications for admission must be made upon a form obtained from the office of the Dean of the Law School. Official transcripts of all college records must be sent to the School. Students are selected principally on the basis of their college records and the material furnished in their applications for admission; where appropriate, consideration may also be given to the General Education Test and interview, if required. The School does not require the Law School Admission Test administered by Educational Testing Service but suggests that this test be taken and invites the submission of the test report. The Law School does not require that applicants for admission present college credit in any specified subjects.

EXAMINATIONS AND GRADING

In the LL.B. Program an annual comprehensive examination is given in June on the work of the year. Course examinations may be given in some of the elective units. Except in the case of the elective units, only a single grade is recorded for the year. These grades are recorded as numerical grades in the Dean's Office and in the office of the Registrar of the University as letter grades on the following scale: A, 80 and above; B, 74-79; C, 68-73; D, 60-67; F, below 60.

A grade of 68 on each annual comprehensive is required for continuance in school and for graduation.

* Law 305, Economic Analysis and Public Policy, will be offered in place of Trusts in the third year for 1950-51 only; all students in this third-year class will have had Trusts during the previous year.

401. Taxation. Income, gift, and estate taxation by the national government; the taxation of families as income-receiving and wealth-holding units; the taxation of business income and capital gains; the relationship of taxation to monetary and fiscal policy; and the role of taxation in a private enterprise economy. Aut (36 hours) and Win (44 hours), Blum.

402. Trusts. Problems relating to the creation and administration of trusts; contemporary uses of the trust device. [Not given in 1950-51; see note above.]

403. Bankruptcy and Reorganization. Credit aspects of inflation and deflation; problems of investment, debt, and failure in a fluctuating economy; debtor relief, including corporate reorganization plans; corporate capital structures. Spr (40 hours), Blum.

404. Labor Law. The legal framework for collective bargaining, strikes, picketing, and other forms of concerted pressure; the relationship of that framework to the general problem of regulating monopoly; the selection of the collective bargaining representative, the relationship of the representative to the individual employee, including the regulation of the internal affairs of labor organizations; the negotiation, administration, and enforcement of collective bargaining agreements. Spr (45 hours), Meltzer.

405. Law of Competition and Monopoly. The structure of American industry, the theory of competition and of monopoly; the development of patents and trade-marks; problems of unfair competition; the enforcement of the anti-trust laws against restraints of trade and against monopoly. An industry study is required of each student; see Law 449. Aut (24 hours) and Win (44 hours), Levi, Bowman, Bursler, Director.

406. Evidence. The proof of facts in issue in trials at law and equity, with incidental treatment of hearings before administrative tribunals, covering burden of proof, presumptions, and judicial notice; the examination, competency, and privilege of witnesses; logic in relation to problems of circumstantial evidence and relevancy; the exclusionary rules of evidence. Aut (60 hours), Meltzer.

407. Comparative Law. Discussion of problems common to Civil Law and Common Law countries and methods resorted to for their solution. Aut (36 hours), Rheinstein.

408. Conflicts of Laws. The problems arising when important facts of a case occur in states or countries having different rules of law. Win (22 hours) and Spr (18 hours), Rheinstein.

449b. Tutorial Work—Industry Studies. The writing of an industry study is intended to give the student experience in summarizing and analyzing the salient characteristics of an industry in terms of its products and their uses; the relative concentration of its productive facilities (financially, technologically, and geographically); the principal factors in its structure, organization, and trade practices which may explain its "competitive" or "non-competitive" character (e.g., technology, patent control, marketing techniques, relationship to principal raw material sources), and anti-trust history; see Law 405. Win (22 hours), Bowman, Bursler.

LL.B. PROGRAM—ELECTIVE SEMINARS

SUMMER, 1950

461. Federal Jurisdiction. A study of jurisdiction of the federal courts, trial and appellate: cases arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States; diversity of citizenship, jurisdictional amount, removal from state to federal court; conflicts between state and national courts; state law in the federal courts; process and venue in the District courts; appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. McCormick.
512. Public Utilities. The application and implications of the "regulated monopoly" theory in federal, state, and city regulation of public utilities rates and services; with some examples from the region. Ming.

AUTUMN, 1950

451. Use of Land. A study of common law and statutory rules relating to the use of land, and an examination of selected modern programs for affecting and controlling the use of urban and rural lands. Tefft.

452. The Supreme Court and the Constitution since 1937. A study of the constitutional decisions of the contemporary Court and of its significance as a political institution. Crosskey.

453. Problems in Administrative Law. A study of advanced problems in Administrative Law, for students who have had Law 301. Sears.

454. A Study of the Steel Industry. The seminar will attempt to evaluate legal and economic problems relating to "competition" and "monopoly" in the steel industry. The focal point of the seminar will be the recent steel hearings before the Monopoly Subcommittee of the House Committee on the Judiciary. Basic issues which have been raised with respect to public policy on steel will be traced through previous hearings and court cases. Students will be expected to prepare a economic brief on both sides of these issues, and to analyze and evaluate recommendations for or against Congressional action. Baum.

SOCIAL SCIENCE 414A. Justice and Equality. A seminar being offered by Professor Hayek for the Committee on Social Thought, which will be open on a selective basis to law students. Hayek and others.

WINTER, 1951

462. Decedents' Estates. Seminar on the Law of Decedents' Estates. The legal machinery for the transfer of wealth from one generation to another (intestate succession, will, probate, and administration); exercises in drafting. Rheinstein.

463. Police. Law of arrest, with and without warrant; search and seizure; preliminary examination and bindover; coroner's functions; admission to bail. Puttkammer.

464. Substantive Law of Crimes. The criminal act; criminal intent; circumstances affecting intent; consent; justification; parties in crime: agency, joint principals, accessories; crimes against the person and against property. Puttkammer.

465. Indeterminate Sentence, Parole, and Prison Administration. A study of current problems in these areas of Criminal Law Administration from both a legal and a sociological viewpoint. Some field work and study of "live" cases will be included. Lohman.

466. Money, Banking, and Employment. Discussion of past and proposed plans for dealing with the problem of economic instability. Director.

SPRING, 1951

470. Advanced Work—Federal Taxation. Selected problems in the field of federal taxation, for students who have had Law 401. Blum.

471. Advanced Work—Labor. A consideration of selected problems in collective bargaining, government labor policy, and the regulation of internal affairs of labor organizations. This seminar is open to a limited number of qualified students. In the case of law students, a prerequisite for admission is satisfactory completion of the Labor Law course, or concurrent registration in that course. Meltzer.

472. Patents. Problems in the field of patents and trade-marks; for students who have had Law 405. Levi, Director.

473. Special Research in Weber's Sociology of Law. A study of Max Weber's Sociology of Law and special research assignments in connection therewith. Admission with the consent of the instructor only. Rheinstein.

474. The National Judiciary System. The constitutional and statutory jurisdiction of the national courts, both trial and appellate, including the relation of the national courts to the administrative agencies of state and nation. Crosskey.

475. Civil Liberties—Free Speech. A study of contemporary problems in the field of freedom of speech, thought, and assembly. Special attention will be given to issues arising out of the Communist Trial. Ming, Kalven.

476. Philosophy of Law. A study of some of the major topics in the philosophy of law. Adler.

SOCIAL SCIENCE 414C. Justice and Equality. Hayek and others.

IV. PROGRAMS OF ADVANCED STUDY

THE J.D. PROGRAM

The J.D. Program consists of three quarters of advanced and specialized work chiefly in the form of seminar and independent study. Programs are individually planned and may include work in various departments of the University complementary to the legal field of specialization. Each program for the J.D. degree will be supervised by a member of the Faculty of the Law School. Work toward the J.D. may be done either after the completion of the basic three-year program or through summer study during the course of that program. The degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) is awarded to students who are holders of the LL.B. from the University of Chicago or a corresponding degree from an approved law school and who have been in residence for three quarters and have satisfactorily completed the program of work prescribed for them.

THE J.S.D. PROGRAM

The J.S.D. Program is designed for students with outstanding records who have demonstrated (usually by publications) special capacity for independent research on advanced problems in law.

The degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.S.D.) is awarded to research students who have been in residence for three quarters, have pursued such studies as the Faculty has prescribed, and have submitted a dissertation which has been accepted by the Faculty as a creditable contribution to legal science.

V. PROFESSORSHIPS AND TEACHING FELLOWSHIPS

The John P. Wilson Professorship in Law was established in 1929 with funds contributed for the John P. Wilson Memorial Foundation by John P. Wilson, Jr., and Anna Wilson Dickinson as a memorial to their father, John P. Wilson, for many years an eminent member of the Chicago Bar.

The James Parker Hall Professorship in Law was established in 1930 by the alumni of the School in memory of James Parker Hall, Dean of the School from 1904 until his death in 1928.

The Max Pam Professorship in Comparative Law was established in 1935 in memory of Max Pam, for many years an eminent member of the Chicago Bar, with funds allocated by the Trustees under the will of Mr. Pam.

The Harry A. Bigelow Teaching Fellowships were established in 1947 in honor of Harry A. Bigelow. Mr. Bigelow was a member of the Law Faculty from 1904 until his death in 1950, and Dean of the School from 1929 to 1939. The Fellowships are awarded to law graduates of high standing and in recent years have been held by law graduates of Harvard University, University of Pennsylvania, Oxford University, Cornell University, University of Virginia, Indiana University, Columbia University, and the University of Chicago.
VI. GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS AND RESEARCH FUNDS

The Law School has available a number of fellowships for graduate students. The James Nelson Raymond Fellowship was created in 1933 and 1934 by Anna Louise Raymond in memory of her husband, James Nelson Raymond. The annual income is awarded to a research student in law whose record gives evidence of a capacity for distinguished work in legal research.

University Fellowships. A limited number of fellowships are reserved for research students in law.

The Comparative Law Research Fund was established in 1949 to promote research in the field of Comparative Law.

The Frieda and Arnold Shure Research Fund was established in 1945 by Frieda and Arnold Shure.

VII. STUDENT SCHOLARSHIPS AND LOANS

A number of scholarships are available each year for law students of outstanding ability who need financial assistance. Some of these scholarships are for full tuition, some for half tuition, and some in amounts in excess of the tuition charge. In the case of veterans, scholarship awards may be made as cash grants to supplement government living allowances. Approximately one-fourth of the Law School scholarship aid is reserved for entering students.

In addition to the general University scholarships, the Law School has available the James Nelson Raymond Scholarships established in 1930 from a fund given by Anna Louise Raymond, in memory of her husband, James Nelson Raymond.

Application for scholarships should be made upon a form obtained from the office of the Dean of Students of the Law School.

In addition to scholarship aid, the Law School has available several specially endowed loan funds as well as general University loan funds. There is a general University policy of encouraging the use of loan funds and of liberalizing the provisions under which loans to students can be made.

The special loan funds available exclusively to the law students include the Ernst Freund Fund, the James Parker Hall Fund, the Floyd R. Mechem Fund, the Harry A. Bigelow Fund, the Clark B. Whittier Fund, the Anna Louise Raymond Fund, and the Julius Rosenthal Fund.

A form of application for a loan may be obtained from the office of the Dean of Students of the Law School.

For further information on scholarships and loans, consult the University Announcements: A General Statement.

VIII. STUDENT ACTIVITIES AND HONORS

The University of Chicago Law Review, founded in 1933, is published by the School under the management of a Board of Editors composed of students. Members of the second-year classes who rank highest in scholarship are invited to become competitors for election to the staff of the Review. From this group the Board of Editors chooses the editorial staff of the Review. The Editor-in-Chief for 1949-50 was C. Richard Walker. The Managing Editors were Arnold M. Flamm, Norman Geis, Edwin H. Goldberger, and Jerome W. Sandweiss.

The Chicago Chapter of the Order of the Coif is an honor society founded to encourage scholarship and to advance the ethical standards of the legal profession. Its members are selected each spring from the ten per cent of the graduating class who rank highest in scholarship. In 1950 the elected members were Arnold M. Flamm, Edwin H. Goldberger, Jacob W. Hayton, Virginia A. Leary, George W. McBroom, Walter S. Maker, Milton L. Ray, and C. Richard Walker.

The University of Chicago Law School Student Association sponsors various legal and social student functions throughout the year. All students in the School are members; officers are elected from each of the three classes.

IX. PLACEMENT

The Law School has a Director of Placement to coordinate the various types of assistance the School can give in placing law students upon graduation. The School operates to some extent as a clearing house of information on employment possibilities. Advisory interviews are arranged with alumni in Chicago, and special access is given to alumni groups in other major cities. Members of the Faculty are available for consultation and advice.

X. BUILDING AND LIBRARY

The Law School occupies a building situated on the Quadrangles of the University near Fifty-ninth Street and University Avenue. The cornerstone was laid on April 2, 1903, by President Theodore Roosevelt. Built of Bedford stone in the English Gothic style, its external appearance is suggestive of the Chapel of Kings College, Cambridge. In the basement are seminar rooms, a clubroom, lockers, women’s lounge, and library stackrooms. On the first floor are two large classrooms, a courtroom, and the Dean’s offices. The mezzanine floor is occupied by the main library stackroom containing stacks for 100,000 volumes. Opening into the stackroom are the offices of the Faculty. On the third floor is the Law Library reading-room, a great hall one hundred and eighty feet long and fifty feet wide, with timbered roof and clerestory windows on all sides. It has wall shelves for 15,000 volumes and tables for 350 readers. A bridge affords a direct connection between the reading-room of the library of the Law School and the Harper Memorial Library.

On the walls of the building are hung the Charles B. Pike Collection of etchings and engravings of English and American judges and lawyers and also portraits of various members of the Faculty and benefactors of the School.

The Law Library, containing approximately 125,000 volumes, has substantially all the reported decisions of the courts of the United States and of England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia, and the other parts of the British Empire, together with the statutes and session laws, textbooks, periodicals, digests, encyclopedias, and sets of classified and annotated reports of these jurisdictions. The Library has an extensive collection of the original briefs and records of cases in the Supreme Court of the United States. It also has a representative collection of the reports and opinions of various state and federal administrative agencies and the proceedings of various bar associations. The Library has an important collection of materials dealing with Greek and Roman law and the law of Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Mexico, Spain, and Switzerland. In addition, the students of the School have ready access to the Harper Memorial Library, which contains approximately 1,750,000 volumes, and to the libraries of the Public Administration Clearing House and of the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry.

The Law Library has four special funds at its disposal to supplement general library appropriations. These are the James Nelson Raymond Memorial Fund, established in 1929 by Anna L. Raymond as a memorial to her husband, James Nelson Raymond, an eminent businessman of Chicago; the Wallace Heckman Memorial Fund, established in 1929 by Mrs. Wallace Heckman as a memorial to her husband, Wallace Heckman, business manager of the University from 1903 to 1924; the William B. Hale Fund, established in 1944 by the family of Mr. Hale to further the study of monopoly; and the Francis S. Kosmerl Law Library Fund, established in 1948 by a bequest under the will of Mr. Kosmerl, a former student of the School.

XI. GIFTS TO THE SCHOOL

Under the will of Harry A. Bigelow, the University is to receive the remainder of a trust fund, upon the death of certain life beneficiaries, for the establishment of the Harry A. Bigelow Professorship in Law. Mr. Bigelow was Dean of the Law School from 1929 to 1939, and a member of the Faculty of the Law School from 1904 until his death in 1950.

XII. SUGGESTIONS FOR PRE-LEGAL STUDY

The Law School does not require that applicants for admission present college credit in any specified subjects. A broad general education is thought more important for the student of law than specialized study in fields closely related to law.

Such a general education should include study of the social sciences, including economics and history; the humanities, especially philosophy and literature; and the elements of physical and biological sciences and mathematics. It is also of great importance that a law student should have acquired habits of precision, fluency, and economy in writing and speaking. (Ability to use a typewriter is of practical value to law students.)

A list of books suggested for college students considering the study of law may be secured from the office of the Dean. A booklet by members of the Faculty on The Study and Practice of Law may be ordered for fifty cents from the University of Chicago Bookstore, Fifty-eighth Street and Ellis Avenue, Chicago 37. On request addressed to the Dean's Office, copies will be sent to college pre-legal advisors and other faculty members interested in legal education.
XIII. FEES AND OTHER INFORMATION

Application fee. An application fee of $5.00 must accompany the original application for admission to the University. No part of the fee is refundable, nor is it applicable as an advance payment on other fees.

Tuition fee. The tuition fee in the Law School is $202 a quarter. A student is required to pay full tuition unless a reduced program of work and a proportionate reduction of fees are approved by the Dean. The same fees apply to visitors.

Deposit on admission. An applicant who is accepted for admission into the Law School is required to make a deposit of $25 within two weeks after notice of acceptance has been sent. This deposit will be applied on the tuition fee and will be refunded only in the event that illness or other sufficient cause prevents an applicant from entering the School at the beginning of the quarter for which he has been accepted.

For further information concerning payment of bills, refunds, estimated expenses, living accommodations, University Health Service, and other privileges of students, see the University Announcements: A General Statement.

LIBERAL EDUCATION AT CHICAGO

Since 1930 the University of Chicago has been developing a collegiate program concerned only with liberal education. The College which administers that liberal education is a four-year unit which students may enter after two years of high school. Most students entering the College after completing the sophomore year of high school are able to meet the requirements for the Bachelor's degree by the age of nineteen. Entering students will be admitted in June and September, 1950, and at Midyear (about February 1), 1951.

An illustrated booklet entitled If You Want an Education may be obtained by writing to the Admissions Counselor, The University of Chicago, Chicago 37, Illinois.
