The University of Chicago was founded in 1890, the product of the interest of the Baptist denomination in establishing a strong and well-equipped college at Chicago to serve the West. The generosity of private donors, led by John D. Rockefeller, enabled its first president, William Rainey Harper, to realize his bold ideas and extraordinary standards in the creation of a new university. It was to be, at his insistence, a true university, consisting of faculty and facilities for both undergraduate instruction and advanced training and research. Launched not only with a program of ambitious dimensions but with a faculty of remarkable distinction, it became at once one of the leading universities of the world. It was "a new kind of institution, borrowing from the structure and aims of German and English universities, joining the gentlemanly tradition of zeal for good works of the New England colleges with the confidence and brashness of the Middle West." The character of the University was fixed from the start by the spirit of innovation, the devotion to intellectual inquiry, the insistence upon rigorous standards, and the strong sense of mission that Harper gave it. "No episode," a recent study of American higher education declares, "was more important in shaping the outlook and expectations of American higher education during those years than the founding of The University of Chicago, one of those events in American history that brought into focus the spirit of an age."

The University is located in the residential area of Hyde Park. On the Quadrangles are concentrated the facilities and activities of its principal academic units: The College; the four Divisions: Physical Sciences, Biological Sciences, Humanities, and Social Sciences; and the seven Professional Schools: Graduate School of Business, Divinity School, Graduate School of Education, Law School, Graduate Library School, Pritzker School of Medicine, and School of Social Service Administration. There, too, are located the University's Oriental Institute, Enrico Fermi Institute and James Franck Institute for research in the physical sciences, its medical research institutes and hospitals (Albert Merritt Billings Hospital, Chicago Lying-in Hospital, Bobs Roberts Memorial Hospital for Children, Argonne Cancer Research Hospital, Nathan Goldblatt Memorial Hospital, Home for Destitute Crippled Children, and the new Silvain and Arma Wyler Children's Hospital), Laboratory Schools (founded by John Dewey), the Sonia Shankman Orthogenic School, and the Center for Continuing Education, a part of the University's Extension Division.

The University enjoys the advantages of a metropolitan environment and a self-contained intellectual and residential community. The campus is seven miles south of Chicago's downtown area and just west of the shore of Lake Michigan. It is located in a residential area which lies between two large parks. The campus extends for nearly a mile in one direction along both sides of an open mall, the Midway Plaisance, and more than half a mile in the other. The thirteen buildings which constituted the University in its first five years have grown to over one hundred and thirty. The Gothic style of the original quadrangles mingles with the work of such modern architects as Frank Lloyd Wright, Eero Saarinen, Edward Durrell Stone, and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe. The Laird Bell Law Quadrangle, designed by Eero Saarinen and completed in 1960, is a striking feature of the newer part of the campus growing along the south side of the Midway.

The City of Chicago and the University have grown together, enriched each other, and shared common resources and challenges. Students at the University soon become familiar with the city’s distinguished cultural resources: the Chicago Symphony, the Art Institute, the Lyric Opera, the theaters, galleries, museums, and concert halls. The University is an important focus of intellectual life for the city, and a continuing program of concerts, lectures, exhibits, conferences, and other attractions draws visitors to the campus from the entire metropolitan region. University scholars of many kinds make constant use of the city’s resources. At the same time, many of these same scholars are employed in solving some of the city’s most fundamental problems and are sought as authorities and leaders in a variety of civic enterprises.

THE LAW SCHOOL

A school of law and jurisprudence was contemplated in the original plan for the University of Chicago. It was President Harper’s view that the school should be more than a training institution for admission to the bar. An education in law, he said, “implies a scientific knowledge of law and of legal and juristic methods. These are the crystallization of ages of human progress. They cannot be understood in their entirety without a clear comprehension of the historic forces of which they are the product, and of the social environment with which they are in living contact. A scientific study of law involves the related sciences of history, economics, philosophy—the whole field of man as a social being.”

President Harper’s plan was approved by the Trustees in 1902, and the Law School was opened in October of that year. The cornerstone for the first law building, made possible by a gift from John D. Rockefeller, was laid by President Theodore Roosevelt on April 2, 1903. The goal of the School, as stated in the first Announcements, was “to afford adequate preparation for the practice of law as a profession in any jurisdiction in which the common law prevails, and to cultivate and encourage the scientific study of systematic and comparative jurisprudence, legal history, and principles of legislation.”

Harper’s broad view of legal education and the aims of the first faculty have animated the program and spirit of the Law School down to the present day. In its professional curriculum the School seeks to impart the systematic knowledge of traditional and modern fields of the law and the intellectual discipline that are a necessary foundation for the practice of law with distinction. At the same time it recognizes that professional education in the law must train men for diverse and unpredictable roles as lawyers, not only in the practice of law but as public servants, civic leaders, in business life, and as teachers and scholars. Accordingly, it places a high value on intellectual breadth in legal studies, including knowledge of the history, principles, and purposes of legal institutions and the operation of these institutions in the modern world. The School has adhered to Harper’s conviction that it was not to be an institution that had a merely nominal connection with the University and was not to be separated either by location or by spirit from the University at large. The conviction is reflected in diverse ways: in the variety of courses and seminars taught, in the membership on the faculty of professional economists and other social scientists, the participation of scholars from other branches of the University in the instructional program, in its research interests, and in the active interest which students in the Law School take in the life of the University. Thus, while the School has a strong professional emphasis, maintaining close ties with the practicing bar, the bench, and institutions concerned with law reform, it remains an organic part of the University, embodying the spirit and purpose of University life and, in turn, contributing to that life.

The usual, although not exclusive, form of instruction in the Law School is the case method. Emphasis is also placed on individual instruction through a tutorial program in the first year and through seminars and supervised independent study in the second and third years. The program of the first year is prescribed and provides all students with a common foundation in the basic legal subjects. The program of the second and third years is elective. The total student body numbers about 450, including approximately 25 graduate students each year, and is deliberately kept rather small to maximize the opportunities for close contact with the faculty and for individual or small-class study in the second and third years.

PREPARATION FOR LAW STUDY

The Law School does not require that applicants for admission present college credit in any specified subjects. An excellent general education is thought more important for the student of law than specialized study in fields closely related to the law. Ideally such an education should include some study of history and of the social sciences, while not neglecting literature, philosophy, or other humane fields. It should serve to develop the capacity for logical precision; demonstrated competence in mathematics or the physical sciences is to be valued for this among other reasons. Increasingly a mastery of some foreign language is useful in the study of law as the ability to learn about other legal systems becomes more important to our society. But, just as there are many different roads to the acquisition of an inquiring, disciplined, cultivated mind, so there are different ways in which a student may acquire a valuable foundation for the study of law. Perhaps of greatest importance is that the student should have acquired habits of precision, fluency, and economy in speaking and writing.
PROGRAMS OF INSTRUCTION

THE DOCTOR OF LAW (J.D.) DEGREE

The regular or professional curriculum in the Law School is a three-year program leading to the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.). The program is open to men and women who have received a Bachelor's degree from an approved college before beginning their study in the Law School. Students may begin the study of law only in the Autumn Quarter.

The entering class is limited to approximately 150 students. Students are selected on the basis of their college academic records, their performance on the Law School Admission Test (which is required of all applicants), and such other evidence of their academic and professional promise as may be available. Such evidence includes the letters of recommendation received from college instructors and others familiar with the applicant's personal qualifications and performance, relevant activities and achievements outside the classroom, and personal interviews. Applicants are encouraged to arrange for an interview with a representative of the School when possible. For this purpose representatives of the School visit a number of colleges each year. Visits to the School by prospective applicants are encouraged. Appointments should be made in advance whenever possible.

While superior academic performance in college is a general requirement for admission, no specific minimum standard is applied. The applicant's academic qualifications are judged not only by his over-all average but by a careful evaluation of his college record. The quality of the program pursued, evidence of strong improvement in the later years in college, and outstanding performances in particular subjects often weigh heavily in the judgment made by the Committee on Admissions.

Because of the large number of applications that must be reviewed each year, it is desirable for candidates to apply early in the academic year prior to the year for which they seek admission. It is recommended that they take the Law School Admission Test in October. Each application is considered as soon as it is complete, and decisions are made at the earliest practicable time. The applicant is advised of the action in his case whenever a final decision has been made by the Committee on Admissions.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE

A request for application forms should be addressed to the Dean of Students, The Law School, The University of Chicago, 1111 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637. The completed application form must be returned to the same office. At the same time an application fee of $15, in the form of a check or money order payable to The University of Chicago, must be sent to the Bursar of the University. The application fee is not refundable.

The applicant should register with the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS) by completing and mailing the registration form supplied with each Law School Admission Test bulletin (see paragraph below). A transcript from each college or university attended should then be sent not to the Law School but directly to: LSDAS, Educational Testing Service, Box 944, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. The LSDAS will analyze the transcript and send a copy to this law school and others designated by the applicant on the registration form. If accepted, the applicant will be asked to submit a final transcript, showing the award of a Bachelor's degree, directly to the Law School. Before that time, additional transcripts should be submitted only in response to a special request from the Law School.

The applicant must also arrange to take the Law School Admission Test and to have an official report of his scores on the test sent to the Law School. Application forms for the test and information about it may be obtained by writing to Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Box 944, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applications to take the test must be received by the Educational Testing Service at least two weeks before the scheduled date of the test. The test is scheduled to be given at selected locations in the United States and abroad on October 17, 1970; December 19, 1970; February 13, 1971; April 17, 1971; and July 31, 1971. Applications to take the test at foreign centers must be received at least one month before the scheduled date. Requests for the establishment of special centers in the United States or Canada or for special examination dates must be received by the Educational Testing Service at least five weeks before the scheduled test date, and for special foreign centers at least eight weeks before the scheduled test date.

At the time of application to the Law School the applicant is asked to give the names of three persons who will furnish letters of recommendation about him. The applicant is responsible for seeing that these letters are mailed directly to the Law School. The letters of recommendation must be received before an application is considered complete.

Upon being notified of his admission, an applicant is required to pay an acceptance deposit of $100 in the form of a check or money order payable to The University of Chicago, to hold his place in the entering class. The Office of Student Housing assigns dormitory space in the order in which deposits are received by the Bursar of the University. The deadline for payment of the acceptance deposit is specified in the applicant's letter of admission and will vary depending upon the date of the action on his application for admission or for a scholarship. The acceptance deposit is not refundable unless illness, induction into the military service, or other sufficient cause prevents an applicant from entering the Law School in the year for which he has been accepted. The deposit is applied against the tuition charge.
ADMISSION WITH ADVANCED STANDING

A student in good standing at an approved law school who has completed at least one year of law study may apply for admission to the Law School with advanced standing. The amount of transfer credit which may be recognized will be determined on the facts of each case. Ordinarily students admitted with advanced standing will be required to complete at least six quarters (two academic years) of residence at the Law School to qualify for the J.D. degree. A Bachelor’s degree from an approved college is a prerequisite to admission with advanced standing upon transfer from an American law school, and no transfer credit will be granted for legal studies for which credit toward a Bachelor’s degree has been received.

A graduate of an approved law school whose studies have been primarily in the common law may apply for admission as a third-year student and may become a candidate for the J.D. degree. Such a candidate must complete a minimum of three quarters of residence in the Law School and a minimum of 44 course hours, in a program approved by the faculty, to qualify for the degree.

A graduate of an approved foreign law school whose studies have not been primarily in the common law may apply for admission as a candidate for the J.D. degree in regular course. In the case of such a candidate the requirements for the degree may be met in part by the recognition of credits of up to 45 course hours if performance while in residence in the Law School demonstrates the effective value of the student’s earlier legal studies in a foreign system.

Inquiries and requests for application forms concerning admission with advanced standing should be addressed to the Dean of Students of the Law School.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE J.D. DEGREE

To receive the J.D. degree a student must have been in residence for nine full quarters, maintained satisfactory academic standing, and received credit for the prescribed courses and other required units of credit. A total of 135 course hours, or 33½ course units, is required. (Credit in the Law School is ordinarily measured in course hours but for certain purposes is expressed in course units. A single course unit is the equivalent of four course hours, or four hours per week for one quarter.) To qualify for residence for a full quarter a student must take and complete 12 or more course hours.

In each course, seminar, or other credit work the student receives a final grade according to the following scale: A, 80 and above; B, 74-79; C, 68-73; D, 60-67; F, below 60. (Grades are recorded as numerical grades in the Office of the Law School and as letter grades in the Office of the Registrar of the University.) A grade of 60 or above is required for credit for the work involved.

To maintain satisfactory academic standing a student must receive a weighted grade average of 68 or more for the work of each academic year. In addition, a student who receives two failing final grades in any one academic year, or three failing final grades during his period of residence at the Law School, will not have maintained satisfactory academic standing. Maintenance of satisfactory academic standing is a prerequisite to continuation in the School as well as for graduation.

Regular class attendance is required as a condition of receiving credit for work done. The privilege of membership in the School may be withdrawn for unsatisfactory class work or attendance.

After the first four weeks of any quarter a student is not permitted to withdraw from a course, seminar, or special work for which he has registered that quarter except with the permission of the Dean of Students.

The degree of Doctor of Law, cum laude, is awarded to candidates who have satisfied the requirements for the degree with distinction. The achievement of a weighted grade average of 78 or better is considered to be completion of the requirements with distinction.

COMBINED DEGREE PROGRAMS

Students in the Law School may, with the permission of the Graduate School of Business, become candidates for the M.B.A. degree while pursuing their work toward the J.D. degree. By attending the Graduate School of Business during the summer quarters and by using certain courses in partial satisfaction of the requirements for both degrees, such a student may be able to earn both the J.D. and M.B.A. degrees in four calendar years or less. For detailed information about these arrangements applicants should consult the Dean of Students in the Law School.

Students in the Law School may become candidates for advanced degrees in other fields and earn credit toward such degrees by study during the regular summer quarters of the University while enrolled in the Law School, where the requirements and offerings of the particular department involved are compatible with such work. Arrangements for such combined programs should be made during the first year of law study, in consultation with the Dean of the Law School and the appropriate officer of the other department.

THE GRADUATE PROGRAMS

The Law School offers three regular programs of study beyond the first degree in law leading to advanced degrees. These are (1) the Master of Laws (LL.M.) Program, providing a year of advanced study for Anglo-American law graduates; (2) the Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.S.D.) Program, under which Anglo-American graduates may engage in advanced study and research; and (3) the Comparative Law Program, intended primarily for students whose training has been in legal systems other than the common law.

In addition to these regular programs the Law School is prepared to arrange, for especially qualified graduate students or established scholars, special programs of study and research in the fields of Law and Economics, International Trade and Development, and Criminal Law and Criminology. A number of fellowships for such study are available.

Admission to the Graduate Programs, supervision of students’ programs, and the administration of requirements for degrees is in charge of the faculty Committee on Graduate Studies. The grading system and the requirements for satisfactory academic standing applicable to students in the J.D. program are applicable to students in the Graduate Programs, except where higher requirements are imposed by the rules of the Graduate Programs. Students whose native tongue is other than English may receive extra time on examinations with the written permission of the instructor concerned.

THE MASTER OF LAWS PROGRAM

The graduate program leading to the LL.M. degree makes available to qualified law graduates a year of advanced study in the Law School. The program provides an opportunity for law graduates who wish to develop specialized interests, who desire to supplement their undergraduate legal education, and who may wish to engage in individual research. The program is limited to students (1) who have obtained an undergraduate degree from an approved school of Anglo-American law, (2) whose undergraduate record displays high scholarly aptitude, and (3) who display qualities of maturity and serious purpose sufficient to justify the expectation that they will satisfactorily complete the requirements for the LL.M. degree.

The degree of Master of Laws (LL.M.) is awarded to students who have been in residence for three full consecutive academic quarters, have completed their studies with a B average or above, and have satisfactorily completed in the course of their studies a substantial research paper under the supervision of a member of the law faculty. To qualify for residence for a full quarter, the student must take and complete the equivalent of 12 or more course hours. Credit for 36 course hours and the maintenance of satisfactory academic standing are needed to qualify for the degree.

The program of graduate study is expected to occupy the student’s full time during his academic year in residence at the School. Each student’s course of study may include individual work under the direction of a member of the law faculty; courses and seminars in the Law School; and, when appropriate, related courses at the graduate level in other schools and divisions of the University. If a student elects individual work for credit, the supervising faculty member will submit a report to the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Studies describing the nature of the work submitted and copies of papers submitted. All such papers will be deposited in the library of the Law School. If the student’s program includes courses open to J.D. candidates, supplementary work in such courses may be required.

Students admitted to candidacy for the J.S.D. degree will be awarded the LL.M. degree following completion of the year in residence. Students admitted to the
Along the Midway: Burton Judson Court (Law Houses), the Law School, and American Bar Center
J.S.D. program but who are denied admittance to candidacy for the J.S.D. degree and who have satisfied the requirements for the LL.M. degree may be awarded the LL.M. degree upon recommendation of the Committee on Graduate Studies and favorable action by the faculty.

THE DOCTOR OF JURISPRUDENCE PROGRAM

The graduate program leading to the J.S.D. degree is intended to give superior law graduates an opportunity to secure advanced and specialized training, to cultivate their capacities for significant independent research, and to contribute to the development of legal scholarship. The program is limited to students (1) who have obtained an undergraduate law degree from an approved school of Anglo-American law, (2) whose undergraduate record displays outstanding scholarly aptitude, (3) who at the time of their admission demonstrate well-defined research interests, and (4) who display qualities of maturity and serious purpose sufficient to justify the expectation that they will successfully complete the requirements of the doctorate.

The degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.S.D.) is awarded to students who have been in residence for three full consecutive academic quarters, have completed their studies with a B average or above, and, after admission to candidacy for the degree, have submitted a dissertation that is accepted by the faculty as a creditable contribution to legal scholarship. To qualify for residence for a full quarter, the student must take and complete the equivalent of 12 or more course hours. Credit for 36 course hours and the maintenance of satisfactory academic standing are needed to qualify for the degree.

The program of graduate study is expected to occupy the student’s full time during his academic year in residence at the School. Each student’s course of study may include individual work under the direction of a member of the law faculty; courses and seminars in the Law School; and, when appropriate, related courses at the graduate level in other schools of the University. If a student elects individual work for credit, the supervising faculty member will submit a report to the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Studies describing the nature of the work submitted and copies of papers submitted. All such papers will be deposited in the library in the Law School. If the student’s program includes courses open to J.D. candidates, supplementary work in such courses may be required.

Within two weeks after the beginning of the student’s first academic quarter in residence the Chairman of the Committee on Graduate Studies will appoint a faculty dissertation committee to supervise the student’s research program. The faculty dissertation committee will consist of three members, the chairman of which will be a member of the faculty of the Law School. Whenever appropriate, faculty members of other departments of the University may be appointed to serve on faculty dissertation committees. The student upon being notified of the appointment of the faculty dissertation committee will consult with the chairman on the choice of a dissertation topic and on all other matters deemed appropriate by the committee. At a time not later than the end of the first academic quarter in residence, the student will submit to the dissertation committee a dissertation topic and a tentative outline of the proposed dissertation in such form as is required by the dissertation committee. Upon approval of the topic and outline by the dissertation committee, the chairman of that committee will file a statement of the dissertation topic and a copy of the tentative outline with the Committee on Graduate Studies.

Before the end of the second academic quarter in residence, the student will submit to the faculty dissertation committee a segment of his dissertation of such nature and length as in the opinion of the committee will provide a basis for judgment of the quality of the work in progress and of the likelihood of its being brought to successful completion. Upon receipt of the segment of the dissertation, the chairman will set a date for an oral examination on the dissertation outline and dissertation segment. The examination will be conducted by the faculty dissertation committee and such other members of the Law School faculty as elect to participate in the examination. Upon successful completion of the oral examination and the required academic work in residence, the student will be admitted to candidacy for the J.S.D. degree.

The dissertation must be submitted to the Committee on Graduate Studies within five years after the completion of the period in residence. To be acceptable, the dissertation must constitute a creditable contribution to legal scholarship and must be in publishable form. Three typewritten, printed, or litho-printed copies must be deposited with the Committee on Graduate Studies not later than five weeks before the date of the convocation at which the degree is to be granted. Dissertations must conform to requirements of form established by the Committee on Graduate Studies and the Dissertation Secretary of the University.

T H E  C O M P A R A T I V E  L A W  P R O G R A M

The graduate Comparative Law Program makes available to law graduates trained primarily in foreign legal systems the opportunity to acquire a knowledge of American law and legal institutions, to pursue comparative studies in their fields of special interest, and to engage in research in such fields. The degrees awarded in this program are the Master of Comparative Law (M.Comp.L.) and the Doctor of Comparative Law (D.Comp.L.).

Admission to the Comparative Law Program is open to students who are graduates of approved foreign law schools and whose credentials establish to the satisfaction of the Committee on Graduate Studies that they are qualified to undertake advanced study and research in law.

The degree of Master of Comparative Law is awarded to students who have completed with distinction the residence work required for the degree of Doctor of Comparative Law and who are recommended for the M.Comp.L. degree by the Committee on Graduate Studies and by the faculty.
The degree of Doctor of Comparative Law is awarded to students who have been in residence for three full consecutive quarters, have completed their studies with distinction, and, after admission to candidacy for the degree, have submitted a dissertation that is accepted by the faculty as a creditable contribution to the literature of comparative law. To qualify for residence for a full quarter, the student must take and complete 12 or more course hours. The program is individually arranged with the student’s faculty adviser and is expected to occupy the student’s full time. At least half of the student’s work in residence must be devoted to some phases of Anglo-American law. If the work in residence is completed with distinction, and a detailed outline and partial draft of the dissertation are submitted and approved, the student will be admitted as a candidate for the doctorate. Thereafter the candidate’s dissertation must be submitted to the faculty for its approval within a reasonable period of time as set by the candidate’s dissertation committee. Dissertations must conform to requirements of form established by the faculty and the Dissertation Secretary of the University.

Certificate program.—Graduates of approved foreign law schools whose studies have not been primarily in the common law may apply for admission to a program designed to give a one-year introduction to Anglo-American law. Upon completion of a year’s work such students will be given a certificate of attendance or a certificate for courses successfully completed.

LAW AND ECONOMICS

Fellowships are available to enable established scholars or practitioners with relevant experience to pursue research on an approved topic in the area of Law and Economics, under the guidance of faculty members drawn from the Law School, the Department of Economics, and the Graduate School of Business. The fellowships are open to both economists and lawyers, and tenure is normally for one year. Fellowships are not normally awarded to candidates who have just received their Doctor’s degree or have just been graduated from law school.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND DEVELOPMENT

Fellowships are available to specially qualified graduates of American or foreign law schools with research interests in international, commercial, and financial problems to pursue a year devoted principally to research on a problem in this field under the guidance of designated faculty members. The aim of the program is to encourage the production of a publishable study in the field of International Trade and Development.

CRIMINAL LAW AND CRIMINOLOGY

The Center for Studies in Criminal Justice offers fellowships to law graduates whose research interests and skills can be advanced by their collaboration in the various research projects of the Center, and by their involvement in a two-year program of graduate training leading to a higher degree. The program places emphasis on research design and research methods in the broad fields of criminal justice and the prevention and treatment of crime. The Fellow is expected to devote half his working time to participation in a research or action program of the Center. The other half is devoted to classwork and supervised studies for the Master of Laws degree. Applicants with some training in sociology and psychology or in other disciplines which are particularly relevant to the field of criminal justice will be preferred.

ADMISSION

Inquiries concerning admission to the Graduate Programs should be addressed to the Chairman, Committee on Graduate Studies, The Law School, The University of Chicago, 1111 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637. Applications for admission should be completed by April 1 before the Autumn Quarter for which the student desires admission.

CURRICULUM

The First Year. The work of the first year is prescribed, except for one elective course in the Spring Quarter. In addition to the required courses, all first-year students perform individual assignments in a tutorial program conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty. In this program each student is assigned to a tutor who is one of the Bigelow Teaching Fellows. The tutorial work emphasizes training in research, in the preparation of legal memoranda and other forms of legal writing, and in oral argument. Several of the assignments each year are based upon problems currently presented in actual cases, both trial and appellate, which are heard in the Weymouth Kirkland Courtroom of the Law School by courts of Illinois. A final examination is given in each course at the end of the quarter in which the course is concluded, except that in Property a final examination is given on each quarter’s work in the course.

The Second and Third Years. The program of the second and third years is elective. The normal course load permits a student to plan a well-rounded program of studies and also to pursue some special interests beyond the basic level. The seminar offerings provide opportunities to explore developing areas of the law, to pursue interdisciplinary aspects of particular legal fields, and to work on individual problems involving research and drafting. In addition, students who wish to develop further their facility in research and writing, or to do intensive work on a particular topic not the subject of a regular seminar, are encouraged to call upon members of the faculty for supervision of individual research projects. Such work may be undertaken for credit (see Law 499 below).
Students may, in their second and third years, take work in other departments and schools of the University for credit in the Law School. Such work may be counted for no more than 8 course hours toward the J.D. degree. Each student must receive advance permission to register in such courses from the Committee on Petitions and Academic Requirements, which will base its judgment on its view of the relevance of the proposed course or seminar to the study of law or to a career in law and of the appropriateness of the proposed course or seminar in the light of the student's course of study in the Law School. Students should consult the Dean of Students for information concerning the procedure to be followed for obtaining permission.

In order to achieve credit for 135 course hours in nine quarters, a student must take an average of 15 course hours per quarter. Except with the permission of the Dean, no student may take more than 17 course hours in any quarter. Each student is responsible for keeping himself informed of the number of additional credits he requires for graduation.
In the course and seminar descriptions the number in parentheses at the end of the description represents the value of the course or seminar in terms of course hours per quarter.

FIRST-YEAR COURSES

301. Elements of the Law. The functions and problems of tribunals. The theory of legal rules and of the law crafts. The theory and practice of American case law, especially in regard to principle, precedent, statute, and justice, are developed with intensive study of selected case materials. Aut (3). Miss Mentschikoff.

302. Contracts. The course will deal with the historical development of the enforceability of contractual arrangements, sanctions for their breach, and justifiable excuses for nonperformance. The nineteenth-century elaboration of such basic contract doctrines as that of consideration will be examined in the light of their decline and fall in our own century. The relationship between contract liability and tort liability, taken as twin halves of a general theory of civil obligation, will be stressed. Aut (4), Win (4). Mr. Gilmore.

303. Criminal Law. This course relates the general doctrines of criminal liability to the moral and social problems of crime. The definitions of crimes against the person and against property (as they are at present and as they might be) are considered in the light of the purposes of punishment and of the role of the criminal justice system, including police and correctional agencies, in influencing behavior and protecting the community. Win (3). Mr. Morris. Spr (3). Mr. Zimring.

Note: During the academic year 1970-71 (Winter and Spring quarters) this course will be linked with the first-year Tutorial Program. Class sessions conducted by the instructor will be supplemented by discussion in small sessions led by the Bigelow Fellows, and problems developed in the course will be assigned as subjects for written memoranda supervised by the Fellows. A separate grade will be given for work in the Tutorial Program embracing all three quarters of work in that program and counting for 5 units.

304. Civil Procedure. The first part of this course concerns the formulation and defense of legal claims in civil litigation, with special reference to the adversary system and the role of the lawyer in it. It includes an analysis of pleading and discovery procedures and the right and function of jury trial. The second part of the course is a study of jurisdiction and the scope and effect of judgments, with an emphasis upon the problems imposed by a federal system upon complete determination of disputes that cross state lines; state court jurisdiction from Pennsylvania v. Neff to present-day “long-arm” statutes; principles of finality of judgments and their implementation through the Full Faith and Credit Clause; proceedings in rem and quasi in rem and interpleader and class actions as devices for extending judgments to the rights of persons beyond the personal jurisdiction of the court; the role of the federal courts under the diversity jurisdiction; the enforcement of judgments. Win (4), Spr (4). Mr. Lucas.

305. Property. This course is an introduction to the legal problems relating to and arising out of the ownership and use of land. The first quarter will focus on the concept of “ownership” by exploring the restrictions imposed or permitted by the law on the owner’s use of his land. The second quarter will focus on problems relating to the commercial transfer of ownership of land, with particular emphasis on the legal problems relating to financing the sale of land. Aut (4). Mr. Fiss. Spr (4). Mr. Dunham.
306. Torts. A detailed study of the Anglo-American system of redress for physical harm to persons or property. The core of the course is the study of inadvertent infliction of physical harm, with special attention being given to the legal theory of negligence and to such concepts as causation, standard of care, the reasonable man, duty, contributory negligence, assumption of risk, and proximate cause. There is also a concentration on the common-law rules of damages for death and personal injury. A central theme is the tension between the negligence system and the areas of strict liability, including the emerging law on products liability. The course concludes with a survey of the implications of insurance and risk-shifting theories for the allocation of liability and with a study of proposals for auto compensation plans. Aut (3), Win (3). Mr. Posner.

Elective. In the Spring Quarter first-year students will elect one course from the following courses open to second- and third-year students: 405, 409, 428, 450, 453, 459, 463. Preferences will be indicated in an advance registration during the Winter Quarter. Where necessary in order to limit these courses to a reasonable size, enrolment by first-year students will be limited by lot.

308. Tutorial Work. Each first-year student is assigned to a tutor for individual and small-group work in legal analysis, research, and exposition, including an exercise in briefwriting and oral argument. During the Winter and Spring quarters the work will be integrated with the course in Criminal Law. Aut, Win, Spr (5). Mr. Posner, Mr. Morris, Mr. Zimring, and Bigelow Teaching Fellows.

SECOND- AND THIRD-YEAR COURSES

Courses marked with an asterisk are treated for scheduling purposes as courses that, if elected, are ordinarily taken during the second year; if postponed to the third year they are likely to be available only at the same hours as other courses more commonly elected in the third year.

400. Equitable Remedies. A study of the distinctive characteristics, powers, and problems of a court of equity, with emphasis upon contemporary uses of the injunction as an instrument of social control and reform in such matters as racially discriminatory institutions, interruption of public services by strikes, and interference with constitutional rights. The topics to be explored include: translating considerations of fairness into judicially manageable doctrines; delineating the beneficiaries of a decree and determining the persons responsible for noncompliance; the special problems of massive noncompliance; the procedural aspects of criminal contempt; the place of ex parte injunctions; and the problems of enjoining criminal prosecutions. Win (4). Mr. Fiss.

401. Restitution. As an alternative remedy for tort; remedies in contracts induced by fraud or mistake, and in contracts unenforceable because of impossibility of performance, and statute of frauds, or plaintiff's breach; rescission for defendant's breach and duress. (3). [Not offered in 1970–71.]

402. Redress of Certain Harms. An intensive study of the roles of the tort system in protecting against dignitary harms and umpiring competitive practices in the market place. Emphasis will be placed on the variety of categories through which the law has given protection against insult and indignity and the infliction of emotional harm, intentionally or negligently. There will also be special concern with the law of defamation and with the law on the protection of the right of privacy, with attention being paid to the emerging constitutional developments in both areas. The final segment of the course reviews the tort approaches to unfair competition and emphasizes especially protection against fraud, disparagement, and the appropriation of contract benefits, ideas, effort, and good will. Win (3). Mr. Zimring.

404. Transmission of Wealth at Death. A study of the legal principles and the social and economic policies relevant to the transfer of wealth from one generation to the next and the control over such transfer that may be exercised by the owner. Available devices for controlling devolution are considered in relation to the automatic system provided by law under the statutory provisions governing intestate succession. Aut (4). Mr. Dunham.

405. Trusts, Wills, and Estates.* The first portion of this course concerns the assembling of property, payment of debts, and distribution of resources of a decedent. Topics studied include formalities in executing and revoking wills, rights of spouses and children, and issues of interpretation that arise because of mistake or faulty description or because of changes occurring between the execution of the will and the death of the testator. The problems of probate and administration are considered both from the standpoint of established rules and of current legislative proposals for reform. The second portion of the course concerns the creation, enforcement, administration, and termination of private and charitable trusts of real and personal property. It includes a consideration of trusts created by volition (express or resulting trusts), which are used for managing or transferring or holding title to property, and trusts created by operation of law (constructive trusts), which are used solely as remedial devices. The principal course material consists of court opinions, but some subjects are presented by text material. Regular consideration is given to relevant legislation and to common provisions in wills or trust instruments that alter the normal rules of statutory or case law. Spr (4). Mr. Oaks.

406. Land Development. An advanced course in land transactions, emphasizing the role of lawyers and legal institutions in formulating and executing a plan for the development of land. Attention will be given to three general models for land development: (a) the suburban subdivision; (b) the downtown redevelopment involving office buildings; and (c) the redevelopment of residential and commercial areas in the inner city through urban renewal programs. Financing and regulatory aspects of land development will be considered. The course deals with problems previously studied in Law 406, Commercial Land Transactions, and Law 407, Urban Renewal and Land-Use Planning, offered in 1969–70, and is not open to students who took either of those courses. Spr (4). Mr. Fiss.

408. Oil and Gas. The nature and protection of interests in oil and gas; express and implied duties under leases; transfer of mineral interests; government regulation, pooling, and utilization. (3). Mr. Kaplan. [Not offered in 1970–71.]

409. Natural Resources. An examination of the law and economics of resource control, with emphasis on comparing market and administrative methods of allocating and conserving water, oil, gas, and other natural resources (excluding land) and of controlling air and water pollution. Mimeographed materials. Spr (4). Mr. Posner.

410. Commercial Law I.* The course deals with sales, negotiable instruments, documents of title, letters of credit and documentary collections, with special reference to the Uniform Commercial Code. Emphasis is placed on problem analysis, counseling, and statutory construction. Students who have taken the course in The Sale of Goods must receive the permission of the instructor to enroll in Commercial Law I. Aut (5). Miss Mentschikoff.

411. COMMERCIAL LAW II.* This course is a sequel to Commercial Law I. It deals with personal property security transactions, under the Uniform Commercial Code and under pre-Code law. It is open to students who have taken Commercial Law I. Win (3). Miss Mentschikoff.

412. THE SALE OF GOODS. The nineteenth-century origins of sales law will be studied as a basis for the successive codifications of sales law in the Uniform Sales Act and in Article 2 of the Uniform Commercial Code. The role of codification in the law and the problem of statutory obsolescence following a codification will be considered. Exercises in statutory construction will be carried to a point that many students will find repulsive. None of the other commercial law courses is either a prerequisite for, or a bar against, taking this course. (4). Mr. Gilmore. [Not offered in 1970–71.]

413. NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS. In general the course description for Course 412—The Sale of Goods—is applicable to this course. The law of negotiable instruments has often been described as a field in which form has triumphed over substance. The role of formalities in the law will be examined in this context in the light of the hypothesis that formalities work well with respect to highly professionalized transactions but break down when amateurs begin to play the game. None of the other commercial law courses is either a prerequisite for, or a bar against, taking this course. (3). Mr. Gilmore. [Not offered in 1970–71.]

414. SECURED TRANSACTIONS. The course will focus on selected problems in financing on the security of personal property, particularly under Article IX of the Uniform Commercial Code. Students will be assumed to have a general knowledge of the structure of Article IX and its background. (3). Mr. Gilmore. [Not offered in 1970–71.]

415. FAMILY LAW. The course will consider state regulation of family relationships, including entry into marriage, divorce, child custody, and the property incidents of formation and dissolution of marriage. The family as viewed by legal institutions will be contrasted with the family as seen by other behavioral disciplines. Aut (4). Mr. Zimring.

420. EVIDENCE. The law governing the proof of disputed issues of fact in trials at law and equity, with incidental treatment of hearings before administrative agencies, including burden of proof, presumptions, and judicial notice; the functions of judge and jury; the examination, competency, and privileges of witnesses; the exclusionary rules of evidence. Aut (5). Mr. Meltzer.

421. CRIMINAL PROCEDURE. Study of the legal rules governing the operation of the criminal justice system, a multistage screening process by which society selects those to be punished for criminal behavior. Subjects include investigation of crime and acquisition of evidence by such means as electronic surveillance, search warrants, searches incident to arrest, and interrogation; custody of the defendant, including arrest, detention, release on bail; criminal pleadings, including complaint, information, indictment and plea; counsel and other defense resources for the indigent; function of screening devices, such as prosecutor discretion, preliminary hearing, grand jury, and guilty plea; motion practice and discovery in criminal cases; the criminal trial; post-trial motions and sentencing procedures; appeal and post-conviction proceedings. Win (4). Mr. Kurland.
422. THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM. A study of the operation of the criminal justice system. The primary purpose is to study the operation of the criminal justice system as a whole and to understand its interrelationships; a subsidiary purpose is to train the student in the critical assessment of research data bearing on that system. Topics will include the organization and functioning of the police, the organization of prosecution and defense and the exercise of their respective charging and pleading discretions, bailing, jailing, sentencing, and corrections. Attention will also be given to the administration of the courts of criminal justice and the relationship between judicial administration and policing, sentencing and corrections. In addition to an examination, students will be required to submit an evaluation of a research project in the criminal justice system, discussing its methodology, validity, and utility. The course in Criminal Procedure is a prerequisite. Spr (4). Mr. Morris.

425. ECONOMIC ANALYSIS AND THE LAW. An introduction to economic analysis in the context of legal and public-policy issues which may be illuminated by a framework of economic principle. Conservation and antipollution, minimum wage, antitrust and civil rights laws, among others, are used to elucidate fundamental economic concepts such as opportunity costs, comparative advantage, demand, market-clearing price, efficiency, competition and monopoly, and to demonstrate their relevance to legal analysis. The role of the private property system in the operation of markets is also examined. Aut (4). Mr. Demsetz.

Note: An understanding of economics is important to the study of a number of legal subjects as taught in the Law School, including competition and monopoly, labor law, natural resources, and regulation of competition, as well as others. Students planning to elect work in one or more of these areas are encouraged to take Law 425 in advance of such work. Students with a strong economics background from undergraduate studies should consult the instructor before enrolling in this course.
426. ECONOMIC ANALYSIS AND PUBLIC POLICY. The application of economic analysis to public policy issues in the fields of antitrust, regulated industries, social cost, and property rights. The course is open to students who have taken Law 425, Economic Analysis and the Law, or who have had comparable prior work in economics. Students who have not taken Law 425 must obtain the permission of the instructor before enrolling in the course. Spr (4). Mr. Coase.

427. ACCOUNTING.* The course is primarily concerned with a study of the major topics making up the body of "generally accepted accounting principles" and the manner in which they enter into legal problems. Introductory material on the record-keeping process and form of financial statements is followed by an analysis of major problem areas: revenue recognition, inventory accounting, depreciation, accounting for debt instruments and for corporate capital. The course is concluded with a section on analysis and interpretation of financial statements. Published corporate financial reports, Opinions of the Accounting Principles Board of the American Institute of CPA's, and Accounting Series Releases of the SEC are used as the basic accounting materials for analysis. Win (3). Mr. Sorter.

428. ASSOCIATIONS.* A study of the law governing collective activities, such as clubs, churches, political parties, professional associations, unions, co-operatives, savings and loan associations, mutual insurance companies, charities, academic institutions, hospitals, joint ventures, and partnerships. Topics studied include the liability of members to third parties for the torts and contracts of the collective entity, the duties and liabilities of members and officers to each other, the control of the assets and policies of the entity, procedures for expulsion of members or dissolution of the entity, and the consequences of voluntary and involuntary dissolution of the entity. The course is designed to provide a background for further specialized work in corporations, labor law, and taxation. Spr (3). Mr. Kitch.

429. CORPORATION LAW.* This course considers the nature of the modern business corporation, including small privately-held or closed corporations and large publicly-held corporations; the role of the modern corporation in the collection and allocation of capital and the relation of the securities laws, corporation laws, and the institutionalized processes of distributing securities to that function; the promotion and organization of corporations; the distribution of power between managers and stockholders; the fiduciary obligations of managers to stockholders and of stockholders among themselves; the proxy device and its regulation, the control of insider trading and profit-taking; recapitalization and rearrangement of stockholders' rights (other than in bankruptcy); the combination of corporations; methods and machinery for protecting stockholders' rights, through derivative suits and otherwise. Win (5). Mr. Kaplan.

431. FEDERAL REGULATION OF SECURITIES. This course deals with federal regulation of selling, trading, and dealing in securities in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, together with a consideration of the effect of such laws upon the law of corporations, except to the extent that such matters are considered in the course in Corporation Law. The latter course is a prerequisite. Spr (4). Mr. Kaplan.

432. REORGANIZATION, RECAPITALIZATION AND INSOLVENCY. This course considers the adjustment of the rights of shareholders in connection with mergers and also by charter amendment and voluntary exchanges of securities, including the rights of dissenting shareholders.
through appraisal evaluation proceedings. It then deals with the problems encountered in adjusting debt, especially in the face of financial stress, and in rearranging the rights of shareholders in distress situations. The problems of debt adjustment are examined in a wide variety of contexts, ranging from the individual wage-earner and small businessman to the large publicly-owned corporation. Attention is directed to the standards of fairness imposed by law on modification of shareholders' rights and rearrangement of relationships between debtor and creditors and among creditors in these various situations. The standards for reorganization in a bankruptcy proceeding are contrasted with the rules of fairness applied where readjustment is voluntary or is compelled by something other than the debtor's financial difficulties. Attention is also directed to the factors in our society which encourage the use of debt or equity capital.

433. Public Control of the Modern Corporation. This course will consider the question: What public controls, if any, should be imposed on the modern corporation? We shall begin by examining a number of social-science theories of the corporation, primarily economic theories of the firm, with a view to understanding (a) the reasons for adoption of the corporate form and (b) the adequacy of the checks that competitive and other private economic forces might be expected to exercise on the conduct of the corporate management. We shall then address some current issues in corporation law and policy—such as the appropriate scope of investor protection under the securities laws, the stockholder's derivative action, limitations on the transfer of corporate control, political and charitable activity by corporations, the conglomerate merger, and perhaps others—asking, with respect to each, whether there is a persuasive case for limiting freedom of contract. Mimeographed materials.

434. Business Planning. The aim of this course is to apply the student's knowledge of taxation and corporation law to the solution of a series of transactional problems involving typical steps in corporate formation and rearrangement. The problems include the formation of a closely-held corporation, the formation of a publicly-owned corporation, stock redemption, the sale of a business, merger and other types of combination transactions, and recapitalization, division, and dissolution of corporations. Both small-group discussions and lectures will be employed. Students will be assigned to represent the interests of particular parties, negotiate transactions, and prepare the necessary documents. The student must have taken Corporation Law and Federal Taxation II. Spr (4). Mr. Kitch, Mr. E. Johnson, Mr. Krane.

435. Federal Taxation I. A tax on the income of persons, with rates graduated upwards, is the most significant element in the tax system adopted by the federal government. This first course in federal taxation examines the structure of the current version of the income tax. It emphasizes the problems of determining what is to be treated as gross income for purposes of the tax, what offsets are to be allowed in arriving at the amount of net income upon which the tax is imposed, who will be required to include various items in income or be allowed to claim various deductions, and when these factors are to be reflected in computing income. Particular attention is devoted to the treatment of gains and losses from changes in the value of property. Five central questions are continuously under examination: (1) To what extent do tax rules mean something other than they appear to mean? (2) What policies underlie the mass of technical detail which characterizes the law? (3) How much change in conduct is needed to alter the tax consequences involved in pursuing various goals? (4) What criteria can be found for choosing among alternative tax policies under a progressive income tax? (5) Can one discover any directions in which tax policies and tax law are developing? Aut (4). Mr. Blum.

436. FEDERAL TAXATION II. This course builds upon the basic relationships and concepts looked at in Federal Taxation I. It deals primarily with the treatment of business profits under the income tax. The taxation of income generated by sole proprietorships and the problems of allocating the profits of a partnership to the partners for tax purposes are explored. The major part of the course is devoted to analyzing our dual system of taxing the incomes both of corporations and of their shareholders. Attention is particularly focused on the problems and consequences of taxing business income to an artificial entity as compared to taxing it directly to the owners of that entity; on the importance of tax considerations in business decisions; and on evaluating alternative policies for creating corporate profits under a tax system which subjects personal income to rates graduated upwards. Win (3). Mr. Blum.

437. FEDERAL TAXATION III. This course considers the variety of income, gift, and estate tax problems involved in transfers of property that occur at death or during lifetime for non-commercial purposes, principally within the family unit. Income-tax subjects include the taxation of annuities and life insurance, alimony and property settlements, income in respect of a decedent, and the income taxation of trusts and estates. The major concern of the course is the structure and administration of the federal estate and gift taxes. The subject is organized according to various types of property interests (such as joint tenancy, life insurance, or retained life interests), or familiar kinds of conduct (such as gifts in contemplation of death or transfers for inadequate consideration). The problems these alternatives pose for a transfer tax are explored, and the content of present statutory or decisional law is contrasted with alternatives suggested by prior law or emerging proposals for reform. Win (3). Mr. Dunham.

438. STATE AND LOCAL TAXATION. A study of government finance in a federal state with an emphasis upon apportionment of tax resources among governmental units and including an examination of federal and state constitutional provisions, efforts at interstate co-operation, and proposed federal legislative solutions, together with a brief canvass of problems in the administration of typical state-local tax systems. (4). Mr. Lucas. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

440. LABOR LAW I. The legal framework for collective bargaining, strikes, picketing, lockouts, and other forms of pressure; the relationship between that framework and a general antimonopoly policy; the selection of the collective bargaining representative and the representative’s authority and responsibility with respect to the individual employee; the negotiation, administration, and enforcement of collective bargaining arrangements. Win (4). Mr. Meltzer.

441. LABOR LAW II. A more intensive examination of the grievance-arbitration process and of individual rights in the enforcement of the agreement; the regulation of union internal affairs, including admission, discipline, elections, fiduciary obligations, and related requirements; interunion relations. Labor Law I (or the consent of the instructor, which will be given only in unusual situations) is a prerequisite. Spr (3). Mr. Meltzer.

445. LAW OF COMPETITION AND MONOPOLY. The course traces the evolution of the main lines of doctrine grafted by the courts upon the Sherman Act and supplemental legislation for controlling the structure and competitive practices of American industry. It explores the legal significance of such concepts as price-fixing, boycotts, monopoly and oligopoly, coercion, leverage, vertical integration and market foreclosure, and their application to important contemporary problems including corporate mergers and restrictive methods of distribution used by single firms. Parallel with the study of legal doctrine, the course examines whether the evidence and the judicial opinions in key cases provide satisfactory economic explanations for the observed business behavior and its assumed effects. Win (4). Mr. Dam.

446. Regulated Industries. This course examines the principles and rationale of comprehensive governmental regulation of individual industries, such as broadcasting, airlines, railroads, natural gas and electric power. Among the topics discussed are limitations on entry of new competitors, certificates of public convenience and necessity, transfer of operating rights, regulation of maximum and minimum rates, price discrimination, and competition between firms in different industries. Spr (4). Mr. Davis.

447. Copyright, Patent, Trademark, and Unfair Competition Law. The course deals with federal and state laws designed to protect against unfair competition and the federal law of copyrights, patents, and trademarks. Protections against the dissemination of misinformation and protections accorded to interests in information and ideas having economic value, such as inventions, literary, musical, and other artistic works, designs, commercial symbols, and trade secrets, are studied. An aim of the course is to evaluate the law’s accommodations between the competing goals of encouraging innovation and creativity, protecting the reliability of commercial communication, and preserving freedom of trade. Aut (4). Mr. Kitch.

449. Administrative Law.* Administrative law is the law that governs administrative agencies, including executive departments, in their complex tasks of carrying out governmental programs. Governmental control of private activities, especially of economic life, seems to be everywhere increasing. Legislative bodies determine the general programs, and agencies make them more specific through making rules, adjudicating cases, investigating, prosecuting, and supervising. The main focus of administrative law is on procedural safeguards and on the allocation and control of power, including the structuring, checking, and confining of discretion. A central inquiry repeated in many contexts is how to accommodate procedural fairness to the efficient accomplishment of legislative purposes. The constant quest is for understanding principles of exertion of governmental power and principles of justice that cut across functions of federal, state, and local agencies and their relations with reviewing courts and with legislative and executive authorities. Aut (5). Mr. Davis.

450. Constitutional Law I.* An examination, in the context of selected contemporary problems, of the functions of the Constitution, the relationships among the several branches of the federal government and between state and federal governments, and the role of judicial review. Major topics to be studied include the case-or-controversy requirement and other aspects of constitutional adjudication, the powers of the President and the commerce, taxing and spending powers of Congress; and the concept of state action as a limitation on federal legislative and judicial control over individual relationships. Spr (4). Mr. Neal.

451. Constitutional Law II: Freedom of Expression. A detailed study of problems of freedom of speech that have a constitutional dimension, including such topics as prior restraints, obscenity, the right of privacy, libel, group libel, fair trial and free press, congressional investigating committees, loyalty oaths, compulsory disclosure laws, sedition, public-issue picketing, symbolic conduct, and protest in public places. Aut (4). Mr. Kurland.

453. The Legislative Process. The effort in this course will be to evaluate the proper ken of the legislative process as a means of establishing appropriate laws. Emphasis will be on the procedures of the national legislature through study of recent and current bills. Every student will be expected to prepare a paper. Spr (4). Mr. Kurland.

454. State and Local Government. An examination of selected provisions of state constitutions, general laws providing for the formation and regulation of public corporations, and legislative and freehold charters, with an emphasis on the role of defining the voting public in the design and operation of democratic institutions. Aut (4). Mr. Lucas.

455. Federal Jurisdiction. An examination of the jurisdiction and powers of the federal courts as defined largely by the Judiciary Code and by the Constitution. Subjects emphasized include the diversity, federal-question, and admiralty jurisdictions; Supreme Court review and habeas corpus; governmental immunity, abstention, three-judge courts, and injunctions against suit. Class discussions will focus in large part upon recent decisions in the light of casebook readings. Win (3). Mr. Lucas.

456. Admiralty. Historical development of "cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction" as an element of the jurisdiction of the federal district courts; the role of the Supreme Court in the "common law" development of the substantive law of the admiralty; a brief introduction to the main elements of the substantive maritime law: the maritime lien, maritime torts and contracts, salvage, general average, and limitation of liability. Win (4). Mr. Gilmore.

457. Conflict of Laws. An inquiry into the division of lawmaking and judging authority among the several states and between the states and the federal government, principally through consideration of choice of law, personal jurisdiction, and respect for prior judgments in cases connected with more than one state. Aut (4). Mr. Kaplan.

458. Comparative Constitutional Law. An intensive study of constitutional problems in the area of free speech and political parties, using the topics under study as the basis for the exploration of differences and similarities in historical origins, institutional techniques, attitudes, and legal theory of the American and German polities. However, emphasis will be on the normative as well as the cognitive aspects. (4). Mr. Casper. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

459. Comparative Legal Institutions. An examination of the machinery of justice in Germany, France, and Italy in its historical development and political setting. A theme of the course will be to consider whether and to what extent the Continental experience affords a basis for critical evaluation of certain contemporary problems of judicial process and administration in the United States. Topics to be explored include the selection, career, and remuneration of judges; the role of the adversary system; legal aid; civil and criminal juries; working methods of the legal profession; and legal education. Spr (3). Mr. Katz.

460. Jurisprudence. The course will deal with selected nineteenth- and twentieth-century attempts on the Continent, in England, and in the United States to develop a comprehensive theory of law and society. It will be comparative in nature in order to examine the relationship between legal theory and the political and legal system. The conflict between legal positivism and natural law will be considered from this comparative vantage point as distinguished from that of epistemology. No text will be assigned but extensive reading of source materials will be required. The course will place equal emphasis on lecture and discussion. (4). Mr. Casper. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

461. Distributive Justice. An inquiry into the role of legal institutions in the distribution of income and wealth. The opening sessions of the course focus on (a) the pattern and causes of the present distribution of wealth in our society and (b) the efforts of economists, philosophers, and political theorists to formulate distributive goals. Against this background, we then consider a variety of specific institutional arrangements concerned with the redistribution of income or wealth. The principal emphasis is on policies and institutions designed to alleviate poverty (with a glance at how the problem of poverty is attacked in other countries); but some attention is also given the distributive effects of tax, labor, antitrust, eminent-domain, and other public policies. Mimeographed materials and reading list. (4). Mr. Posner. [Not offered in 1970-71.]
462. DOING BUSINESS IN EUROPE. The course will study the legal, economic, and institutional environment in which a European-based subsidiary of an American corporation operates, from the standpoint of the problems faced by American lawyers in advising corporations doing business abroad. To permit study in depth of a particular environment, the emphasis will be upon German law, but attention will also be given to aspects of French and Belgian law. Topics to be studied include organizing and operating a company under German corporation laws, German labor law, German and European Economic Community law on competition and monopoly, and the respective roles of federal, state, and local government in Germany. Win (4). Mr. Katz.

463. REGIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTIONS. This course is concerned with new forms of international organization that have developed since World War II. A large portion of the course is devoted to regional institutions that have sought to integrate the economies of groups of countries, often with a view to later political integration. Another portion of the course will be devoted to the institutions that have sought, within a broader framework, to deal with the problems of the less-developed countries. To permit more detailed examination of particular institutions and of the problems they face, attention is concentrated on those institutions dealing primarily with economic issues. The European Economic Community, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, and the United Nations Trade and Development Conference will be examined in depth. Spr (4). Mr. Dam.

INDEPENDENT STUDY

499. INDIVIDUAL RESEARCH. In addition to the opportunities for writing of research papers afforded in many of the seminars listed below, second- and third-year students may earn course credit by independent research under the supervision of a member of the faculty. Such projects (commonly known as “499 papers”) are arranged by consultation between the student and the particular member of the faculty in whose field the proposed topic falls. Special rules regarding credit, permission, and requirements for submission of written work are set forth in the regulations of the Law School. Students wishing to register for 499 credit should consult the Dean of Students.

Written work is not a formal requirement for the J.D. degree, but students are encouraged to include some such work in their programs and most students do so, either through participation in a seminar or through 499 credit. Students are encouraged to submit outstanding papers for publication in the Law Review or in other legal periodicals. (See statement concerning the policy of The University of Chicago Law Review under Student Activities, infra.)

Before being granted permission to register for 499 work the student must submit a précis of his proposed study to the supervising faculty member. In considering possible fields or topics for such projects, students may wish to consider seminars described below but listed as not offered in the current year and to consult the instructors concerned as to the possibility of independent work in those fields.

SEMINARS

No more than twenty students will ordinarily be admitted to a seminar, and in some seminars enrolment is limited to a smaller number. Students will be given an opportunity to sign tentative registration lists for seminars. Selection of enrolment where necessary will be by lot or by a method to be determined by the instructor.

Students are not permitted to register for more than one seminar in a quarter except with the permission of the Dean of Students.

501. SEMINAR: AMERICAN CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY. A seminar for law students and graduate students in history concerned with the causes and effects of constitutional change.
Each year the seminar will have a different core topic. The subject to be considered in 1970–
71 is control of the judiciary. Aut (3). Mr. Kurland.

503. SEMINAR: GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF RACE RELATIONS. The seminar will be devoted to a study of the limits and potentialities of the American legal system in ameliorating racial discrimination and in eradicating the heritage of slavery. Legal strategies for regulating race relations will be identified, traced historically, and evaluated comparatively as they operate in various sectors of human life, such as voting, education, public accommodations, and employment. Aut (3). Mr. Fiss.

506. SEMINAR: THE SOCIAL FUNCTION OF PROPERTY RIGHTS. The seminar will examine the development of common-law doctrines in selected areas with a view to determining the extent to which the law has responded to changing economic and technological conditions.
Materials on this problem prepared by the instructor will be studied, and each student will prepare a paper tracing the evolution of a particular common-law doctrine from the standpoint of the seminar’s central inquiry. Win (3). Mr. Demsetz.

507. SEMINAR: FINANCIAL AND INVESTMENT ASPECTS OF LIFE INSURANCE AND ANNUITIES.
An analysis of the cost of life insurance and annuities, their use as investment media, and their role in business and family planning today. Aut (3). Mr. Blum.

509. SEMINAR: CONSUMER PROTECTION. An analysis of various legal topics that are currently discussed under the heading of consumer protection, including safety, fraud, misleading advertising, warranties, credit, prescription drugs, and food additives. An attempt will be made to isolate the common policy issues that these topics raise. Regulatory and competitive approaches to solutions will be contrasted. Emphasis will be placed on remedies, including the relative advantages of judicial and administrative remedies and the utility of the class action. Open to third-year students only, unless less than 20 third-year students register.
Aut (3). Mr. Dam.

510. SEMINAR: LAW AND URBAN PROBLEMS. The theme of this seminar will be an examination of urbanism and its implications for the structure of local, state, and federal legal relations. Seminar papers may include briefs and memoranda on selected legal issues as well as drafts of proposed legislation. Aut (3). Mr. J. Levi.

512. SEMINAR: URBAN PLANNING POLICIES. The seminar will examine the planning process for programming the physical restructuring of cities. The central question will be: How are federal, state, and local policies and programs formulated and carried out? An attempt will be made to broaden the student’s understanding of interdisciplinary skills by reading and analysis of the planning literature. The literature on “Cost-Benefit Analysis in City Planning” and on “Planning-Programming-Budgeting Systems” and the problems of carrying out the results of any of these analyses will be examined. Current and future policies and programs will be examined against the background of the literature. The particular problems studied will be primarily housing and employment. Open to law students and, with the permission of the instructor, students from other departments taking work in the Center for Urban Studies. Win (3). Mr. Dunham, with Mr. J. Melzer of the Center for Urban Studies.

513. Seminar: Law and Welfare Policy. The theme of this seminar will be an examination of current proposals for reform of the welfare system, with particular emphasis on the legal problems thus developed. Particular attention will be devoted to relations between (1) federal and state programs and jurisdictions, (2) federal welfare and other programs, and (3) drafting problems. Spr (3). Mr. J. Levi.

514. Seminar: The Urban Public School System. The seminar considers the legal problems arising from the operation of an urban public education system, with emphasis on the public elementary and secondary school system of Chicago. Topics considered include the role of municipal, state, and federal governments in financing the school system; methods of allocating resources within the system; racial and economic segregation; disciplinary methods; relationship of the public schools to parochial schools and nonsectarian private schools. (3). Mr. Fiss. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

515. Seminar: Higher Education. The theme of this seminar will be an examination of legal problems relating to American higher education including university governance, the university and the federal government, and the university and the state. Seminar papers may include briefs and memoranda on selected legal issues as well as drafts of proposed legislation. (3). Mr. J. Levi. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

516. Seminar: Law and Psychiatry. The seminar will run through two quarters. The Autumn Quarter will be devoted to a study of basic psychiatric disorders, their etiology and treatment. In addition to class discussions, students will visit mental hospitals and outpatient clinics, attend a case demonstration, and observe interviewing methods. Students will be required to live and work in a state mental hospital for one weekend, from Friday night through Sunday night. In the Winter Quarter the focus of attention will shift to selected legal-psychiatric problems in the criminal law and in the hospitalization of the insane and retarded. Visits to correctional institutions and agencies, and to courts responsible for committing the mentally ill, will be arranged. Comparisons between prison and hospital will be drawn, and the conflict between individual freedom and social responsibility will be delineated. A paper or research report will be required. Preparatory reading will include text references and mimeographed material. Enrolment will be limited to twelve third-year students. Aut (2), Win (2). Mr. Morris, Dr. Rubin.

518. Seminar: Social Science Research. The seminar is an introduction to elements of empirical research methodology that may be useful to the lawyer in employing such research for litigation purposes, evaluating the results of such research, and carrying out empirical investigation as a part of the task of legal scholarship. The topics considered include the principles and practice of sampling, design of experiments, design of surveys, statistics as a means of simplified description, statistics as a means of inference from sample to universe, interviewing and reason analysis, and social science research for litigation. Spr. (3). Mr. Zeisel.

520. Seminar: Trial Practice. An introduction to the techniques of advocacy in civil and criminal trials. In civil cases, pleading and discovery and their relationship to trial will be addressed. In criminal cases, the seminar will consider pre-trial proceedings such as commissioner’s hearings, preliminary hearings, arraignments, and motions, and post-trial proceedings such as motions for a new trial and sentencing hearings. Experienced trial lawyers will participate by instruction and demonstration. Members of the seminar will be responsible for either the preparation and trial of simulated civil cases or, in so far as permitted by court rules, actual criminal cases, or both. Students in the seminar should have taken Evidence; those with special interest in criminal trials should have taken or be currently enrolled in Criminal Procedure. Enrollment will be limited to thirty-five students. Permission of the instructor is required. Preference will be given to third-year students. The seminar will extend over two quarters. Win (2), Spr (2). Mr. Fuller, Mr. Horan.

521. Seminar: The Legal Profession. The seminar will consider several current topics involving the rights and responsibilities of lawyers, including the deportment of counsel in political trials; the use of the contempt sanction against lawyers; the subsidization of legal services; the efficiency of litigation and legal services as methods of redistributing wealth; licensure and regulation of lawyers; and new methods of practicing law. Spr (3). Mr. Posner.

530. Seminar: Current Corporation Problems. An intensive consideration (more than is possible in the course in corporations) of certain specialized problems in corporations and corporate finance which are current and in flux as, for example: concepts of corporate control; problems of convertible securities; restrictions upon the sale of corporate control; use and character of stock options; special problems of mutual funds; and the allowable extent of exculpatory clauses in charters. Aut (3). Mr. Kaplan.

535. Seminar: Taxation. A study of selected tax problems. Limited to students who have taken Federal Taxation I and II. (3). Mr. Blum. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

541. Seminar: Labor Law—the Community and Collective Action. A consideration of selected problems relating to representation of, and strikes by, public employees and to existing machinery for avoiding or dealing with critical stoppages in transportation and other industries. Labor Law I is usually a prerequisite. Organization of, and assignments for, this seminar will be worked out during the Winter Quarter. Spr (3). Mr. Meltzer, Mr. Burton.

544. Seminar: The Regulation of Capital Markets. The seminar will survey the regulation of capital markets in order to evaluate the impact of that regulation on the overall level of economic activity, the efficiency with which capital is raised and allocated and the allocation of capital to particular economic activities. Topics for papers will be drawn from the regulatory activities of the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and state agencies regulating banks and savings and loan associations. Win (3). Mr. Kitch.

545. Seminar: Workshop in Industrial Organization. Studies in the structure and behavior of industries, with special emphasis on the role of government regulation. Law students wishing to participate in the Workshop may do so by registering for 499 credit, with the permission of the Dean. Ant (3), Win (3), Spr (3). Mr. Stigler, Mr. Coase, and other members of the faculty.

546. Seminar: Workshop on Regulation of Economic Activity. A study of governmental regulation of individual industries. Primary emphasis will be on substantive rather than procedural issues. This year the Workshop will deal with the telecommunications industry, and students enrolled in the Workshop will conduct field research on local issues in the regulation of the industry, such as CATV franchising, frequency allocation, and telephone regulation. Win (3). Mr. Coase, Mr. Dam, Mr. Posner.

547. Seminar: Administrative Law. Unlike the course in administrative law, which provides extensive coverage of many broad problems, this seminar is designed to furnish educational experience in deeper inquiry than usual, after the manner of the best law firms when the stakes are high. The approach is both from the standpoint of accomplishing agency goals and from that of the practitioner who is protecting interests of private parties. Difficult problems on the frontier of the rapidly developing field are the focus. Some of the subject matter is that of the great regulatory agencies, some has to do with federal grants and benefits, and some relates to interests that seem more human than economic, such as welfare administration and police discretion. (3). Mr. Davis. [Not offered in 1970-71.]

549. Seminar: Discretionary Justice. Most injustice in the legal system results from discretion, not from application of rules and principles. The strongest need and the greatest promise for improving the quality of justice to individual parties in the entire legal and governmental system are in the areas where decisions necessarily depend more upon discretion than upon rules and principles and where formal hearings and judicial review are mostly irrelevant. The seminar demonstrates that discretionary power is susceptible of meaningful study; it focuses on problems that are common to discretionary power of judges, police, prosecutors, regulatory agencies, welfare agencies, and other administrators, with a view to understanding what is done and what can be done to confine, to structure, and to check discretionary power. To some extent, thinking is stimulated by contrasting European systems and attitudes. Win (3). Mr. Davis.

551. Seminar: Constitutional Law. The constitutional law seminar each year explores a particular area of constitutional problems. For the current year, the seminar will deal with the constitutional powers of the President. Spr (3). Mr. Kurland.

552. Seminar: The Supreme Court. An analysis of cases on the docket of the Supreme Court in the current term. The members of the seminar prepare draft opinions after studying the briefs filed in the Supreme Court. The opinions are circulated and then discussed in the seminar, usually in advance of the actual decision of the particular case by the Court. The required written work consists of the several opinions which each student must prepare. Enrolment is by permission of the instructor and limited to eight students. Win (3). Mr. Neal.

561. Seminar: Taxation of Foreign Income. A study of selected problems concerning the taxation of foreign income. Spr (3). Mr. Blum.

565. Seminar: International Commercial Problems. A study of selected problems in international sales transactions, with emphasis upon government controls over currency and commodities, such as exchange controls, quotas, licenses, tariffs, and the common market state trading. Commercial Law II is a prerequisite, except with the permission of the instructor. Spr (3). Miss Mentschikoff.

566. Seminar: Workshop in International Economic Policy. Studies in the formation of foreign economic policy. The Workshop this year will be devoted to international monetary policy, with particular emphasis on international cooperation concerning increased liquidity and exchange flexibility. Law students wishing to participate in the Workshop may do so by registering for 499 credit, with the prior permission of Mr. Dam. Spr (3). Mr. Dam, Mr. Aliber, Mr. H. Johnson.

‡ Extends over more than one quarter.
The Law School publishes three professional journals, The University of Chicago Law Review, The Supreme Court Review, and the Journal of Law and Economics. The Law Review is a quarterly published under the management of a board of student editors. The Supreme Court Review is an annual volume devoted to responsible professional criticism of the current decisions of the Supreme Court. The Journal of Law and Economics provides a forum for the publication of writings by economists and lawyers on problems that are both economic and legal and seeks to stimulate scholarly investigation of such problems.

The School’s long-standing concern with the relationships between law and economics has also been expressed through the Law-Economics Program, under which lawyers and economists interested in problems in this area have been encouraged to spend some time at the Law School working on problems of their choice. A continuing series of studies has focused on problems in the antitrust field. Presently special attention is being given to problems of public ownership and public regulation of economic enterprise, to problems of labor organization and technological advance, and to the emerging problems of allocation of rights in undersea resources.

The Program in Law and the Behavioral Sciences has for some years been supporting studies aimed at increasing knowledge about legal institutions by drawing upon relevant knowledge and techniques of other disciplines concerned with social organization. Continuing projects under this program are an empirical study of the behavior of juries in civil and in criminal cases, which seeks among other things to isolate the characteristics of jury determination which differentiate it from decisions by judges without juries; a study of the role of lay judges in the Austrian courts; studies of the causes of court congestion and certain proposed remedial devices; and a study of existing systems of lawmaking by arbitration.

The Comparative Law Research Center, established in 1949, serves as a means of encouraging and guiding research projects in the field of international legal relations and comparative private law. It also serves as a clearing house of information for foreign research and teaching institutions and provides advice to scholars and students abroad who are engaged in studies touching upon American law.

The Center for Studies in Criminal Justice, established in 1965 under a grant from the Ford Foundation, is concerned with enlarging knowledge of criminal behavior and its treatment and with providing graduate training in the methodology and practice of research in this field. The Center maintains close working relationships with other disciplines in the behavioral sciences relevant to the prevention and treatment of crime. Research projects already begun include: a study of the operation of half-way houses; an analysis of the operation of deterrent processes in the criminal law; some comparative studies in correctional practice; and a survey of state and national crime studies. Other planned projects will deal with aspects of the administration of justice in the juvenile and family courts and with the use of case aides in probation. Professor Norval Morris and Mr. Hans W. Mattick are Co-Directors of the Center.

The Law School maintains close working relations with the American Bar Foundation, the research affiliate of the American Bar Association. The Foundation, located across the street from the Law School in the American Bar Center, carries on a broad program of research in law and its processes, notably in criminal law, legal problems of the poor, and judicial administration. The program of the Foundation provides opportunities for students in the Law School to work as research assistants while in school and during the intervening summers. The Executive Director of the Foundation is Professor Dallin H. Oaks. Other members of the Law School faculty act as consultants in the Foundation's work.

A group of faculty members, occasionally joined by members of the Sociology Department and the Department of Statistics, meets every second week in the Workshop on Empirical Research in the Law. The Workshop discusses new studies, invites scholars from other universities, and thus keeps the faculty abreast of developments in this fast-growing area. Students with special interests in the topics are invited as guests. The Workshop is directed by Professor Hans Zeisel.
BUILDINGS AND LIBRARY

The Laird Bell Law Quadrangle consists of four connected buildings surrounding an open court. It connects directly with the Burton-Judson Residence Halls in which the residence houses for law students are located. Immediately east of the Law Quadrangle are the buildings of the American Bar Center, occupied by the national headquarters of the American Bar Association, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, the library and research activities of the American Bar Foundation, and various other national legal organizations.

One building of the Law Quadrangle contains the auditorium, seating 475 persons, and a courtroom, the Weymouth Kirkland Courtroom, which was designed and is used for the hearing of official cases as well as moot cases argued by the law students. The classroom building includes four classrooms of varying sizes, a number of seminar and conference rooms, student lounges and lockers, and a suite of offices for the Mandel Legal Aid Clinic. Administrative offices are located in a separate wing which connects the library building and the residence halls.

The Law Library and faculty offices occupy the large central building of the group, immediately adjacent to the classroom area. Faculty offices, research offices, student study rooms, and carrels surround the stack areas of the library. The book stacks are open to all students and the plan of the building provides direct access to members of the faculty as well as convenient facilities for study throughout the book areas. The building contains offices for student organizations, a typing room, a rare book room, and a periodicals room.

The Law Library collection covers substantially all fields and systems of law. The Anglo-American Law section contains an almost complete collection of the statutes, session laws, and reported decisions of the courts of each jurisdiction. It includes also an extensive collection of the original briefs and records of cases in the Supreme Court of the United States and a representative collection of the reports and opinions of the federal and state administrative agencies. The Law Library is a designated depository for United States government documents. In addition the Anglo-American Law section comprises substantial collections of digests, encyclopedias, loose-leaf services, periodicals, treatises, and bar association proceedings. The Foreign Law section contains basic source and secondary materials relating to early legal systems and the law of European and African countries, including the latest codes, laws, decisions, and current periodicals. There are also special sections on legal history, biography, jurisprudence, comparative law, canon law, and international law. A collection of materials concerning the laws of oriental countries can be found in the Library of the Oriental Institute and Far Eastern Library. Law students have ready access to the other libraries of the University, to the library of the nearby Public Administration Service, and to the library of the American Bar Center. The professional schools of the University include the Graduate Library School, which offers certain programs of study designed to prepare students for law librarianship. Information about these programs may be obtained directly from that School.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS AND EVENTS

To supplement its formal curriculum, the School arranges each year a varied program of conferences and lectures. It is the School's conviction that law study should provide generous opportunity for students to consider important current issues of law and policy and be exposed to the points of view of practicing lawyers, politicians, business leaders, and scholars from other fields whose concerns furnish the facts and problems with which law must deal. These activities also have as their aim to help further the development of the law by fostering informed discussion of contemporary problems.

The following summary of activities during the year 1969–70 indicates the nature and scope of this part of the Law School's program.

CONFERENCES

The School's Twenty-second Annual Federal Tax Conference took place in October, 1969. The Conference is planned in co-operation with leading tax lawyers and accountants in Chicago and is participated in by tax specialists from all over the United States. Papers delivered at the 1969 Conference made up the December, 1969, issue of Taxes magazine. Professor Walter J. Blum directs the School's sponsorship of the Conference; Assistant Dean Don S. Samuelson is the Conference...
The Twenty-third Annual Federal Tax Conference will be held in the Prudential Building Auditorium on October 28, 29, and 30, 1970.

A Conference on Clinical Education and the Law School of the Future was held October 31 and November 1, 1969. It consisted of both the presentation of papers and panel discussions. Among the topics were “Financing Student Clinical Programs”; “Clinical Experience in American Legal Education: Why Has It Failed?”; “Clinical Teaching in Medicine: Its Relevance for Legal Education”; “Goals, Models, and Prospects for Clinical-Legal Education”; “The Practice of Law by Law Students: An Analysis.” The participants included Messrs. Robert A. Burt, John M. Ferren, W. Burnett Harvey, William Pincus, J. Wayne Reitz, Preble Stolz, William P. Creger, Robert J. Glaser, Steven M. Fleisher, and conference co-ordinator Edmund W. Kitch. Student participants included Carol Cowgill, William G. Hoerger, and Michael D. Ridberg. Conference resource papers have been published and can be obtained by writing to the University of Chicago Law School.

A Conference on Organized Crime was held on February 26 and 27, 1970. The first session of the Conference dealt with the existence or nonexistence of a national crime organization. Papers at this session were delivered by Gordon Hawkins, Research Fellow in the Law School’s Center for Studies in Criminal Justice, Dwight C. Smith, Jr., of the State University of New York at Albany, and Charles Siragusa, Executive Director of the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission. The second session dealt with the nature and extent of the impact of organized crime, whether or not national in scope, on society. Speakers at this session included Daniel Walker, former president of the Chicago Crime Commission, Thomas Schelling, Professor of Economics at Harvard University, and Milton G. Rector, Director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. The final session of the conference involved the countermeasures available to deal with organized criminal activities. Speakers at this session were Earl Johnson, Jr., of the University of Southern California Law Center and Donald R. Cressey, Professor of Sociology at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

LECTURES

The Ernst Freund Lectureship was established in honor of a distinguished member of the Law Faculty from 1902 to 1932. Holders of the Lectureship have been the Honorable Felix Frankfurter, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the United States; the Honorable Walter V. Schaefcr, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of Illinois; the Honorable Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., Judge, United States District Court for Massachusetts; the Right Honorable Lord Denning of Whitchurch, Lord of Appeal in Ordinary; the Right Honorable Lord Parker of Waddington, Lord Chief Justice of England; Wilber G. Katz, Professor of Law, University of Wisconsin; the Honorable John Marshall Harlan, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of the United States; the Right Honorable Sir Kenneth Diplock, Lord Justice of the Court of Appeal; the Right Honorable Lord Devlin, formerly Lord of Appeal in Ordinary; and the Honorable Carl McGowan, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. The Freund Lecture in 1970 will be given by the Honorable Henry J. Friendly, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

The Henry C. Simons Memorial Lectureship was established in 1955 as a biennial lectureship in the field of law and economics, in honor of Henry C. Simons, for many years a distinguished member of the Faculties of the Law School and the Department of Economics. The most recent Simons Lecturer was James Tobin, Sterling Professor of Economics, Yale University, who spoke during the Spring Quarter, 1969, on the subject “On Limiting the Domain of Inequality.”

The C. R. Musser Lectureship, an endowed lectureship in honor of a distinguished citizen, was established by the University in 1955 out of funds previously given to the Law School by the General Service Foundation. The Lectureship is awarded from time to time for a public lecture on some phase of the problems of government, to be given by an experienced citizen who has held public office.

THE COURTS AT THE LAW SCHOOL

The Weymouth Kirkland Courtroom provides complete facilities not only for the School’s extensive moot-court programs but also to accommodate courts sitting in regular session, hearing actual cases. During the past eight years, the Supreme Court of Illinois, the Illinois Appellate Court, and the Circuit Court of Cook County have held such regular sessions in the Kirkland Courtroom. On May 15, 1970, two cases from its regular calendar were heard in the Kirkland Courtroom by the Illinois Supreme Court. These court proceedings have been integrated with the first-year program of legal research and writing. Students hold informal discussions with participating lawyers following the trial or arguments. On occasion, also, members of the Faculty meet with students to analyze the issues presented by a case prior to its argument and to comment on the argument after it has taken place.
STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

The University of Chicago Law Review, founded in 1933 and published by the School, is written and managed by a Board of Editors made up of students. Students ranking highest in scholarship upon completion of their first year are invited to become competitors for election to the staff of the Review. From this group, the editorial staff and Board of Editors are chosen. Students not appointed at the end of the first year but who during their second year write notes or comments that are accepted for publication in the Review may be asked to join the editorial staff.

The University of Chicago Law School Student Association is composed of the entire student body and is affiliated with the American Law Student Association, a national organization sponsored by the American Bar Association. The Student Association sponsors a variety of social and extracurricular programs throughout the year, including weekly faculty-student luncheons, coffee hours, speaker programs, and athletic events. In addition, third-year members of the Association act as advisers to first-year students.

The Hinton Moot-Court Committee conducts a two-year program in appellate advocacy. The program, open to all second- and third-year students, uses actual cases to provide students with instruction and experience in the arts of brief writing and oral argument. Hinton Competition judges are chosen from the faculty of the Law School, practicing attorneys, and judges in state and federal courts. Student counsel and Hinton judges discuss the case and counsel’s performance at informal receptions following each argument. Judges for the final argument of the third-year Hinton Competition in 1970 were The Honorable J. Skelly Wright of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit; The Honorable Wilfred Feinberg of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; and The Honorable Shirley M. Hufstleder of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.

The Mandel Legal Aid Association is the organization through which students participate in the work of the Edwin F. Mandel Legal Aid Clinic, a branch office of the Legal Aid Bureau of Chicago located in the Law School. The Clinic renders legal assistance to indigent persons in the community adjacent to the University. Students selected for membership in the Association conduct weekly office hours in the Clinic and, under the guidance of the director and staff attorneys, assume responsibility for the cases of the clients who are interviewed. The program is intended to complement the academic study of law with experience in interviewing clients, investigating facts, dealing with adverse parties, and participating in court proceedings. In addition it seeks to acquaint students with the legal problems encountered by individuals and groups in an inner-city community; part of the program of the Association is directed toward identifying and pursuing generally applicable remedies, such as test cases on recurrent problems that may alleviate the conditions giving rise to individual legal difficulties.

The Law Students Civil Rights Research Council provides field and research assistance in the areas of civil rights, civil liberties, and poverty law for community organizations and members of the Bar. The Council also assists in a summer program in which students are placed in positions with private attorneys, legal aid groups, or community organizations in both the North and the South.

The Summer Fieldwork Fellowship Program, supported by grants from private foundations, law firms, and alumni, provides opportunities for summer work by law students in a variety of service agencies, such as neighborhood legal services offices, public defender offices, crime investigating commissions, community renewal foundations, probation and parole services, correctional institutions, and juvenile court judges. The objects of the program are to give law students direct exposure to, and to broaden their understanding of, important social problems not emphasized in the formal curriculum; to give students an opportunity to apply their legal skills and to obtain training and experience in legal or semilegal activities; and to broaden students’ range of career choices.

The Douglas Inn of Phi Delta Phi, a national legal fraternity, maintains a program of professional and social activities for its student membership.

HONORS AND PRIZES

The Joseph Henry Beale Prize, named in honor of the first Dean of the Law School, is awarded to the first-year student or students whose work in the first-year tutorial program is judged by the Faculty to be most worthy of special recognition. The winners for 1969–70 were Keith H. Beyler and Donna M. Murasky.

The Edwin F. Mandel Award is made annually to those members of the graduating class who, during their Law School career, have contributed the most to the Legal Aid program, in both the quality of the work done and the conscientious exercise of legal aid responsibilities. The award for 1969–70 was made to Richard S. McMillin and Peter Greenfield.

The Robert H. Jackson Prize is awarded annually to the students who submit the best papers in connection with the work of the Seminar on Constitutional Law.

The Jerome N. Frank Prize for distinguished Law Review writing is awarded annually for the outstanding comment produced by a third-year member of The University of Chicago Law Review. In 1969–70 the prize was awarded to Mark B. Simons.

The Hinton Moot Court Competition Awards are made to the winners of the third-year moot court competition. In 1969–70 the winners were Elizabeth S. Mercer and Paul E. Souers.
The Karl Llewellyn Memorial Cup, which is presented each year to the highest scoring team in the second-year moot court competition, was awarded in 1969-70 to Barry S. Alberts and Bartholomew Lee.

The Casper Platt Award is given in recognition of an outstanding student paper dealing with legal problems in the fields of criminal law, administration of justice, social legislation, or other problems of immediate social significance. The Award is supported by the Casper Platt Memorial Fund, established in 1968 in honor of the late Casper Platt, J.D., 1916, who served with distinction for many years as United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Illinois. In 1969-70 the award was made to H. David Soble.

The Chicago Chapter of the Order of the Coif is an honor society founded to encourage and to advance the ethical standards of the legal profession. Its members are elected each spring from the 10 per cent of the graduating class who rank highest in scholarship. In 1969-70 the elected members were James A. Beat, C. John Buresh, Jo Ann L. Chandler, Jan T. Chilton, Walter Hellerstein, George A. Hisert, Charles C. Ivie, Paul M. Shupack, Mark B. Simons, Theodore S. Sims, and Lewis M. Wine.
The Law School maintains a Placement Office to assist students in finding and selecting suitable positions and to help alumni seeking a change of association. Representatives of law firms and other prospective employers located in most of the principal cities of the country visit the Law School during the school year to interview candidates for employment. Interviews are arranged through the Placement Office.

Information on all current job opportunities known to the Placement Office is kept available on open file in the Office. Students are encouraged to consult this file and to discuss their job interests and expectations with the Assistant Dean in charge of placement. In addition to information about specific openings, the Placement Office maintains an extensive collection of material concerning legal career opportunities, including bar admission requirements for all states, listings and descriptions of law firms, and descriptions of corporations and government agencies. The Office also acquires information on judicial clerkships, teaching positions, graduate programs, and other career and training opportunities of interest to students graduating from law school.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

FEES

Application fee. An application fee of $15 must accompany each original application for admission to the Law School. No part of the fee is refundable, nor is it applicable as an advance payment of other fees.

Tuition. Tuition fees in the Law School are $825 per quarter, or $2,475 for the nine-month academic year. A student is required to pay full tuition unless a reduced program of work and a reduction of fees are approved by the Dean.

A student who furnishes evidence to the Registrar that he must withdraw in order to perform his compulsory military service shall be granted a full tuition reduction for the quarter for such courses as he is unable to complete. A student who is required to withdraw for disciplinary reasons shall not be entitled to any reduction of tuition or fees.

Residence hall fees. Room and board in Linn House and Mathews House are available at a cost of $1,425 for the nine-month academic year. (For information about other residences, see section on Housing.)

Deposit on admission. Each applicant who is accepted for admission into the Law School is required to make a deposit of $100. Applicants admitted prior to March 1 may pay acceptance deposits by April 1. Applicants admitted after March 1 and before June 1 may pay deposits within twenty-one days of admission. Any applicant admitted after June 1 may have fifteen days in which to pay his deposit. Candidates who have applied for scholarship assistance will not be required to pay acceptance deposits prior to notification of action upon their scholarship applications. The acceptance deposit will be applied to the tuition fee and will not be refunded, unless illness, induction into the military service, or other sufficient cause prevents an applicant from entering the Law School in the year for which he has been accepted.

Special fees. The University charges $25 for late registration; $5 for late payment of tuition; and $2 for each change in registration.

EXPENSES

The costs of attending the Law School will vary, of course, depending upon individual circumstances. The following figures are offered as a general guide to the student in estimating the costs of his essential needs for the nine-month academic year in residence at the Law School. Estimates include expenses for tuition, room, board, books and supplies, laundry and cleaning, clothing, recreation, and incidentals. Travel expenses are not included.

FINANCIAL AID

Except as to graduate fellowships (as to which, see below) all inquiries concerning financial aid should be addressed to the Dean of Students, The Law School, The University of Chicago, 1111 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637.

Applications for financial aid in the first year should be submitted at the time application for admission is made. An applicant for financial assistance is expected to supplement his personal application form with a Parents’ Financial Information Form, processed by the Law School Financial Aid Service (LSFAS). A registration form for this service may be found in the LSAT Bulletin of Information, or may be obtained from the Law School or by writing to LSFAS, Educational Testing Service, Box 944, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. The Parents’ Form should be sent to the LSFAS, where it will be analyzed and duplicated and sent to each law school designated on the registration form.

SCHOLARSHIPS

A substantial program of scholarship assistance to deserving students is made possible by certain endowed funds, generous annual giving by the alumni and other friends of the Law School, and the general funds of the University. With the aid of scholarships, summer earnings, and loan funds that are available for non-scholarship holders and to supplement scholarships, a number of students having limited outside resources are able to finance their legal education at the University of Chicago Law School. A list of the funds and gifts from which scholarships are assigned and loans are made is set forth elsewhere in these Announcements. The categories of scholarships are described below.

The Floyd Russell Mechem Prize Scholarships, established as a memorial to Professor Mechem, provide a stipend of $3,800 per year to a limited number of entering law students of exceptional promise. The awards are renewable for the second and third years of study at the Law School. Students desiring to be considered for the Mechem awards should obtain a special application form from the Dean of Students of the Law School. Applications for the Mechem Prize Scholarships must be completed by February 1, 1971.

The Weymouth Kirkland Law Scholarships are administered by the Trustees of the Weymouth Kirkland Foundation. A limited number of awards are made each year by the Foundation to candidates residing in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, or Wisconsin who plan to attend a law school in one of those states. Selection of recipients is made by a special committee on the basis of scholarship, good character, personality, potential leadership, and need. Stipends are in the amount of tuition ($2,475) and, in certain cases, up to $1,000 for living expenses, and grants are renewable at the discretion of the Trustees for the second and third years of study. For further information and special application forms prospective candidates should write directly to the Weymouth Kirkland Foundation, Suite 2900, Prudential Plaza, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

In addition to the foregoing special scholarships, the general scholarship program of the Law School provides grants to students with superior academic records who can demonstrate financial need. Awards are frequently in the amount of tuition, although they may be greater or less, depending upon need and availability of funds. All awards made to entering students are subject to review at the end of each academic year. Students given financial aid will ordinarily be expected to receive a portion of such aid in the form of loan rather than grant.

Fellowships

The Law School has available certain funds which provide fellowships for law graduates in various programs of special study. The number of fellowships and the amounts of the stipends vary, depending upon the needs of the individual student and upon the number of qualified candidates applying. Inquiries concerning fellowships should be directed initially to the Chairman, Committee on Graduate Studies, The University of Chicago Law School, 1111 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637.

The categories of fellowships available are as follows:

The Harry A. Bigelow Teaching Fellowships, established in 1947 in honor of a former Dean of the School. Bigelow Fellows are members of the Faculty with the rank of Instructor. They assist in the work of the First-Year Tutorial Program.

Commonwealth Fellowships, available for a year of study at the School to a limited number of students from the British Commonwealth who are graduates in law or in jurisprudence of universities of the British Commonwealth.

Comparative Law Fellowships, available to graduates of European law schools who undertake graduate study in the Comparative Law Program.

Law-Economics Fellowships, available for graduate lawyers or economists who desire to pursue a program of study and research in the law-economics area.

International Organization Fellowships, for graduate students working in the Program in International Trade and Development.

Loans

In addition to scholarship and fellowship aid, the University administers funds under the provisions of the National Defense Education Act, maintains a private tuition loan program, and offers short-term cash loans through several specially endowed funds. Loans are available to students in the Law School upon demonstration of financial need, subject to recommendation by the Dean of Students and approval by the University Cashier.
Students may borrow up to $2,500 per year, not to exceed a total of $7,500. Notes securing such loans are free of interest so long as the borrowers remain in a full-time program of study, and thereafter they bear interest at the annual rate of 3 per cent. After graduation borrowers are expected to make regular monthly payments of at least $20 but may have as long as ten years in which to complete the repayment of their loans.

Guaranteed loans are granted by banks, credit unions, and savings and loan associations in each state. The terms of the loan vary somewhat from state to state, but all are subject to the following provisions: (1) The loan ceiling ranges from $1,000.00 to $4,500.00 per academic year, up to a total of $7,500.00 for all years. (2) If the family’s taxable income is under $15,000.00 per year, the government will pay all interest charges while the student is in school, and the student begins monthly payments at 7% interest after leaving school. If the family income is over $15,000.00, the student must pay all interest charges. Applications are available at the student’s community bank. For further information on these loan programs, contact the Loan Counselor at 5737 University Avenue, extension 4595.

Special loan funds are available to students who have unexpected medical expenses or are confronted with other emergencies.

HOUSING AND FACILITIES

HOUSING

Student Residences. Linn House and Mathews House are the Law School Residences, located in the Burton-Judson Courts and connected with the Law School buildings. The residences include dining hall and lounge rooms, television, recreation, and laundry facilities, as well as living quarters for law students. The rooms are furnished for either single or double occupancy. The lounges in the Burton-Judson Courts also provide a meeting place for law students and a center for extracurricular activities of the School.

Unless special arrangements are made, the assignment of rooms is for a period of three academic quarters. Room contracts include board, and the room and board rate for 1970-71 is $1,425 for the academic year, payable in an initial deposit and three quarterly installments.

Arrangements may be made by law students not rooming in the Law School Residences to take regularly breakfast, lunch, or dinner, or any combination in the Burton-Judson Courts dining halls.

In addition to space reserved in Mathews House, women law students have a choice of apartments or furnished rooms, some located within walking distance of the Law School. Campus buses run frequently during the day and evening between these buildings and the Law School. Most accommodations for women range from $68 to $80 per person per month, with leases for the academic year only.
All inquiries concerning University housing for single students should be addressed to the Office of Student Housing, The University of Chicago, 5801 Ellis Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60637. Students are advised to apply early in order to obtain the desired accommodations.

International House. International House, with accommodations for over five hundred residents (men and women), is a gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and is designed primarily to provide living quarters for qualified students from abroad and for American students. Full-time graduate students and upperclass undergraduate students registered in the University of Chicago and in other colleges and universities in the Chicago area are eligible for residence at International House. Accommodations are available also on a quarterly, short-term, or transient basis to visiting foreign faculty members, scholars, research associates, and Fellows.

International House offers a varied program of cultural and social activities planned to give opportunities for the students to acquire knowledge of each other's customs and culture. Informal discussion groups interpret the historical, political, and sociological aspects of various countries. Social events include dances, concerts, receptions, and programs presenting activities of a national character. Opportunities are provided for foreign and American students to work together in many types of student enterprise. A broad program of community hospitality allows foreign students to meet American families and to visit American homes. Tours are arranged quarterly to Chicago's outstanding industries and historical centers.

Quarterly rates for rooms in International House are as follows: for double rooms equipped with individual beds, $139-$159 per person; for single rooms, $149-$184. A few single rooms with semi-private baths are available quarterly for $228. Short periods of residence (minimum of three weeks) are arranged for at favorable weekly rates, which vary according to length of stay and type of room. The daily rate is $5.00 per person for the first fourteen days and $2.50 per day thereafter. All rooms are furnished, including blankets and bed linen. Moderately priced meals are served in the cafeteria, which is open to all University students and faculty members.

All inquiries should be addressed to the Office of Admissions, International House, 1414 East Fifty-ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637.

Meal Service. Students not living in one of the residence halls may have their meals in any of the residential dining rooms—Burton-Judson Commons, Woodward Commons, Pierce Commons. Meals are also served in Billings Hospital Cafeteria, 950 East Fifty-ninth Street; at International House, 1414 East Fifty-ninth Street; and at the Center for Continuing Education, 1307 East Sixtieth Street.

Roommates. Students may request from the Dean of Students Office a list of the names and addresses of students presently enrolled in the Law School and those enrolling in the fall.

Married Student Housing. The University has over one thousand apartments in thirty buildings for the housing of married students. There are furnished apartments ranging in size from one and one-half to three and one-half rooms; the unfurnished units range from two to six and one-half rooms. The rates for furnished apartments are from $100 to $142 monthly; those for unfurnished are from $89 to $186 monthly. Apartments are rented on a twelve-month basis, but special arrangements can be made to terminate the lease as of the first day of an academic quarter. Utilities are included in the rental rate for furnished apartments but not in that for unfurnished units. The furnished apartments do not include bedding, linens, dishes, silver, or kitchen utensils. Both furnished and unfurnished apartments are provided with a stove and a refrigerator, and all apartments have a private bath.

The University will assist each married applicant to find housing, but it cannot guarantee University-owned housing to incoming married students. Applications should be made well before the time when the accommodations will be needed. Further information and application forms can be obtained by writing to: Office of Married Student Housing, The University of Chicago, 824 East Fifty-eighth Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637.

The University House System consisting of nineteen College Houses and five Houses for graduate students provides opportunities for law students to serve in the staff positions of Resident Head or Assistant Resident Head. Members of the staff are expected to give informal guidance and encouragement to the students as individuals and in groups in their social and cultural activities supplementary to the academic program. The Resident Head receives a furnished suite, board, weekly maid service, telephone privileges, and in the large houses, a cash stipend. All Assistant Resident Heads receive a single room. In the first year each Assistant also receives the equivalent of one-half of a board contract; in the second year of service he receives a full board contract. Applications and information may be obtained from the Office of Student Housing, 201 Administration Building.

THE CHAPEL AND RELIGIOUS GROUPS

Sunday morning services of worship are held throughout the academic year in the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel. Students and faculty members participate in the service. Special services are scheduled for the major seasons of the Church year: Advent, Christmas, Lent, Holy Week, and Pentecost. The Chapel is open daily for private meditation and prayer.

Membership in the University Choir is open to all qualified students. The Choir sings at the Sunday services and, accompanied by members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, gives four or five major concerts each year. These include such works as Handel’s The Messiah, Bach’s Passion According to St. Matthew and Mass in B Minor, as well as modern works of sacred music. Frequent organ concerts are given by the University Organist and by distinguished guest organists. Carillon concerts are played each Sunday and Wednesday by the Chapel Carillonneur.

The Episcopal, Jewish, Quaker, and Roman Catholic groups have for their activities houses of their own near the Quadrangles. A number of Protestant groups co-operate with the University in maintaining Chapel House, a building adjacent to the Chapel at 5810 Woodlawn Avenue, for their joint activities.

CHAPEL AND RELIGIOUS GROUPS

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Men's Division. The program for men provides: (1) Instruction and opportunities for participation in individual, partner, and team sports. (2) A survey course of general instruction and participation in a varied program of seasonal American sports and recreative activities. (3) Intramural competition in individual, partner, and team sports. (4) Competition with outside teams in baseball, basketball, cross-country running, fencing, golf, gymnastics, rifle-shooting, rugby, soccer, squash rackets, swimming, tennis, track and field athletics, and wrestling.

The Frank Dickinson Bartlett Gymnasium contains basketball, badminton, and volleyball courts, space for gymnastics, wrestling, fencing, squash rackets, weight-lifting, and handball, and a swimming pool. The Field House provides facilities for practice and enjoyment of a variety of athletic sports under favorable conditions in cold months and in bad weather. It contains a removable basketball floor, a track, a baseball diamond and batting cage, five tennis courts, a rifle range, a golf driving range, and a football practice field. The University also maintains several outdoor tennis courts, two large playing fields, baseball diamonds, golf greens, a one-quarter-mile cinder track, and an ice-skating and hockey rink.

The Law School sponsors teams in the intramural sports program and participates in intercollegiate rugby competition. The Law School reflecting pool is used for hockey and ice skating in the winter.

Women's Division. The Women's Division carries on a program of instruction, some features of which are open to men, and a program of recreational activities open both to men and to women. Instruction is given, on a regular schedule of two or more weekly meetings, in individual, partner, and team sports.

Ida Noyes Hall provides equipment for the program of athletics for women. The building contains a gymnasium, dance room, games room, swimming pool, golf cages, bowling alleys, billiard room, and shower and dressing quarters. To the south of Ida Noyes Hall is the Midway Plaisance with three hockey fields.

STUDENT HEALTH CLINIC

The Student Health Clinic is part of the group of hospitals, doctors' offices, and research laboratories known as the University of Chicago Hospitals.

During the quarters when a student is registered and for the week following each such quarter, he is entitled to the complete facilities of the Student Health Clinic. The benefits include office visits to the professional staff of the Student Health Clinic, access to the Emergency Room of Billings Hospital when Student Health is closed, and hospitalization for the first five days for any single illness when au-
Authorized by a Student Health Clinic physician, provided the illness did not exist before the student's admission to the University.

The University requires a medical examination at time of entrance and periodic rechecks thereafter for selected diseases of concern to the health of the University community. New students on registering must make an appointment for the entrance medical examination, and failure to do so or breaking an appointment after it has been made entails an added service fee of $3.00 to reimburse the University for additional expense.

The Health Clinic does not provide for house or room calls and, except in serious emergency and following advance authorization by Student Health Service, does not pay for ambulance or other types of transport to the Student Health Clinic or the Hospital Emergency Room.

SPECIAL FUNDS

PROFESSORSHIPS

The John P. Wilson Professorship in Law was established in 1929 with funds contributed for the John P. Wilson Memorial Foundation by John P. Wilson, Jr., and Anna Wilson Dickinson as a memorial to their father, a member of the Chicago Bar. Past holders of the John P. Wilson Professorship have been Ernst Freund, Harry Augustus Bigelow, Wilber Griffith Katz, and Roscoe T. Steffen.

The James Parker Hall Professorship in Law was established in 1930 by the alumni of the School in memory of James Parker Hall, Dean of the School from 1904 until his death in 1928. Past holders of the James Parker Hall Professorship have been Edward Wilcox Hinton, George Gleason Bogert, Wilber Griffith Katz, and Sheldon Tefft.
